U.S., Red ships crash in Korea

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Soviet merchant ship and a U.S. destroyer collided off Korea Wednesday in an incident the Pentagon apparently sought to minimize because of tension stirred by North Korea's recent seizure of the Navy ship Pueblo.

The Defense Department, disclosing the minor collision Friday, said the 10,000-ton Kapitän Viskobkov and the 3,500-ton USS Rowan collided in the Sea of Japan at 1:53 p.m. EST Wednesday (3:53 a.m. Thursday, local time).

At the time the vessels were about 95 miles east of Pohang, South Korea, and well south of the North Korean port of Wonsan where the intelligence ship Pueblo is held.

The Pentagon said the Rowan had the right of way but the State Department said the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow protested to the U.S. embassy asserting the warship was in the wrong.

Neither ship reported any casualties but the destroyer emerged with a three-foot hole above the water line on her port bow.

"When queried by flashing lights, the Viskobkov signalled 'no assistance required' and 'damage to my stern two meters in length,'" the Pentagon reported. Two meters are a little over six feet.

Later, defense officials told newsmen they believe the collision was in no way connected with the Pueblo incident—"unless you take the far-fetched idea that had it not been for the Pueblo, the destroyer wouldn't have been in the area."

Officials refused to say what the destroyer's mission was.

Erma joins Record family Monday

A young suburban housewife starts a humor column for The Pocono Record Monday. There will be three columns each week, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The editor of the Dayton (Ohio) Journal-Herald discovered her. "As you can see, she is great," he wrote. "She's happily married, has three kids and lives in the suburbs but, of the millions who share the frustrations of such a state of affairs, she is the one who can tell about it with brilliance and good humor."

Erma Bombbeck writes about taking the children to the movies: "We both agreed we had seen so many Flipper episodes, we had to buy nose plugs! At any rate, it came out my turn and there I was standing in a cold line that snaked to the outskirts of town, out of shops with food that was to be the beginning of a four-hour snack-a-thon. And, once inside the theater, they were busier than a fly on a fruit-cake."

Getting a book from the library: "When you live in a small community where the librarian knows you by your first name, your blood type and your record club serial number, you can't be too careful about the books you read. I, for one, don't want to be referred to behind the book stalls as 'Old Smutty Tongue.'"

Erma Bombbeck, a 40-year-old brunette with brown eyes, was born in Dayton, and is married to the principal of a Dayton high school. Their three children are Betsy, 14, Andy, 12, and Mat, nine.

Erma began writing while she was a copy-girl for the Dayton Herald during World War II.

Six American missionaries die during attacks by Viet Cong

LBJ brands Cong spurt failure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson portrayed as a failure Friday what he termed the general uprising of Vietnamese Communists. He said it may mean some adjustments but no change in basic strategy for the United States and no increase in combat troops at this time.

The President told a quickly called news conference he does not believe the Communists have scored a psychological victory, either.

Johnson said, too, that he is unable to report "any success or results" in explorations the administration has been making into what a reporter referred to as so-called offers from Hanoi on peace talks.

No proof

The chief executive said he has no proof but that practically every expert he has talked with believes there is a definite connection between the uprising of Vietnamese Communists and North Korea's seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and its crew.

The President brought reporters into the Cabinet room at the White House to read them a statement on the Vietnamese situation and then turned to answering questions. It was almost a one-subject conference, considering the link Johnson said the experts see between the Pueblo affair and the surge of Communist uprisings in Vietnam.

And Johnson said, as his military commanders have been saying: "We are at this very moment on the eve of a major enemy offensive in the area of Khesan and generally around the demilitarized zone."

Over and over, Johnson kept saying he wanted to play in a low key and not be unduly optimistic. And his words reflected this cautious approach.

On the question of whether widespread attacks in Vietnam plus the imminence of a major offensive could lead to additional deployment of combat troops to Vietnam, Johnson replied:

"I would not want to make predictions. Of course it is possible. The answer is yes. I wouldn't want your lead to say 'Johnson predicts,' or 'that is anticipated,' but we see no evidence of that."

U.S. plans to revamp air defenses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense officials plan to embark this year on a 10-year, $12-billion program to revamp U.S. air defenses against the threat of attack from bombers.

The major concern is the Soviet Union, which has only 155 intercontinental range bombers but has the choice, in view of the U.S. deployment of a missile defense, of developing an advanced manned bomber.

The Soviets aside, there is the chance other countries might try the bomber-route to offset U.S. missile superiority.

"No matter how quickly, we must also guard against a fighter-bomber attack from Cuba, and possibly other nations," Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told Congress Thursday in his annual military report.

Radar networks

The present U.S. defense against bombers consists of radar networks and squadrons of jet interceptors stationed around the United States and Canada.

This system was designed a decade ago before the Soviets switched from bombers to missiles.

The Soviet trend to missiles made U.S. ground radars and undefended jet bases vulnerable to an attack which could pave the way for a nuclear-armed bomber assault.

As one military expert in air defense put it: "They can get one helluva lot of megatons up to the perimeter of our defense."

McNamara said that after studying various alternatives it has been determined the air defense system should be reshaped—if what he called an "indispensable element" could be obtained.

Savage fighting continues in South Vietnamese cities

SAIGON (AP)—Widespread, savage fighting raged into the fifth day in key South Vietnamese cities Saturday.

The U.S. Command reported 12,704 enemy had been killed since Monday evening in allied counterattacks that were said to be crushing the biggest Communist offensive of the war.

Fresh fighting broke out in parts of Saigon and masses of civilians were reported fleeing a battle in a northern suburb of the capital.

At Hue, the old imperial capital far to the north, South Vietnamese forces reported capturing an airfield inside the city's walled citadel.

Ground assaults

The Communists launched heavy ground assaults on at least six provincial capitals and district towns in the rice-growing Mekong Delta below Saigon and in the provinces just north of the city.

Enemy gunners hit the U.S. air base at Da Nang with 40 rocket rounds. Damage to the base and its planes was reported light. It was the third attack on the base in the last five days.

The U.S. Command said enemy fighters were killed at a rate of 124 plus per hour during the 102-hour period from 6 p.m. last Monday through Friday midnight, making the total 12,704. Allied forces also reported they detained 3,576 enemy suspects.

A total 983 allied troops were killed in the 102-hour period, including 318 Americans and 661 South Vietnamese. Allied wounded totaled 3,483, of whom 1,539 were Americans and 1,792 South Vietnamese.

While the Communists held parts of several cities and towns across the country, President Nguyen Van Thieu declared: "The back of the Viet Cong attack has been broken. We can consider they have been totally defeated."

Receive 'chilly' reception

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The parents of a deserter from the U.S. Navy arrived in Sweden Friday for a visit with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Lindner of Mount Pocono, Pa., dashed through the Arlanda Airport outside Stockholm and refused to say anything to newsmen except that they planned to stay for two weeks "and then we will see what happens."

Their 20-year-old son, Michael, was at the airport to meet them. Asked how he felt about seeing his parents again, he replied, "I don't feel anything."

No handshake

He did not shake hands with his parents as they stepped out of the plane but greeted them with a "hey". Later, he took his mother's arm and led her through a group of about 20 newsmen.

Con-Con makes own ground rules

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Constitutional Convention, apparently undaunted by the lack of a quorum, sidestepped its own rules Friday and extended the deadline for submission for a court reform proposal until next week.

Only 65 of the convention's 163 delegates were present, although its rules require that 82 members be on hand before business can be transacted.

All four were granted sanctuary in Sweden for "humanitarian reasons." Michael stays with a well-known Swedish artist family and studies Swedish, hoping to qualify for college education.

United Press - International reported that the sailor's greeting to his parents was "chilly."

Young Lindner allowed his mother to hold his hand but had little to say to his father who said he flew to Sweden to "have a long and thorough talk with my son."

Two others captured by enemy

NEW YORK (AP)—Six American missionaries, spreading the word of their faith in the dangerous Vietnam countryside, were reported slain Friday in a Viet Cong onslaught through the highlands village of Ban Me Thuot.

A 33-year-old nurse was reported missing and another missionary believed captured. The wife of one of the slain men was injured.

The bodies of five of the slain missionaries—three men and two women—were reported left in the village area by the Viet Cong—with booby traps attached to them. The sixth, a daughter of one of the victims, died later.

They are identified as the Rev. Robert Ziemer, 49, of Toledo, Ohio; Miss Ruth M. Willing, 42, of Cleveland, a nurse; the Rev. C. Edward Thompson, 43, and his wife, Ruth, 44, of New Kensington, Pa.; and Leon C. Griswold, 66, of White Plains, N.Y.

Mrs. Ziemer, who was injured, told the Christian and Missionary Alliance in New York by radio telephone later that Griswold's daughter, Carolyn, 41, also a missionary, had died of injuries.

Miss Betty Olsen, the 33-year-old nurse, was thought to have fled into the woods around Ban Me Thuot, according to the Alliance.

One captured

The alliance also said it had no word on the fate of Hank Blood, of the Wycliffe Bible Translators. He was reported captured by the Viet Cong, but his wife and children were said to have been released and were safe.

The alliance said it had the largest Protestant missionary force in South Vietnam, with 138 persons assigned there for primarily evangelical work.

A spokesman for the alliance said it was notified of the deaths at midnight Thursday by an Army chaplain, the Rev. Richard Perkins, via radio telephone from Ban Me Thuot.

The alliance's mission building at Ban Me Thuot, including a leprosarium on the edge of the village, were reported destroyed in the Viet Cong onslaught.

Nixon explains view on Pueblo

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—On a foggy New Hampshire Friday, beginning an extensive campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, Richard M. Nixon said he did not agree with those who suggest the United States take "very drastic military action" to recover the US Pueblo from North Korea.

"We would recover the ship, possibly," the former vice president told newsmen. "But we would lose the lives of the 83 Americans."

Strange story of Edgar West

It seemed strange, looking at his still form on the hospital bed. Edgar West had just died, and his soul contemplated farewell to his former body.

The heart transplant had been a definite success, but as it was his time, the other organs could not keep up and failed in spite of the newly installed pump.

Edgar West's soul, chilled with the fear of the unknown, felt unreality, as he realized that he had "passed on" and felt no welcoming warmth of any other spirit being. In fact during earth existence he decidedly denied that there was any such thing as an after life. Now he knew!

His casual joke about "having friends in either place" did not seem funny now. He was alone. He still existed and he knew not where he was going to spend an eternity of eon after eon.

He knew, but could not bring himself to accept the fact that he had long since had the invitation to accept or reject God's plan of Salvation, and he had rejected.

Sudden horror
With a sudden horror, he realized that it was all true! All that he had heard in Sunday school when he was a small child, and "outgrew" such foolish notions, "Oh, God, — What was told me — was all true!" Now, it was too late. He had passed beyond hope, and a black, loveless, eternal, future was ahead.

Worst of all was the damning fact that there was also no hope. He was now a lost soul, soaring through black space headed to a strange spirit world of the lost.

He wished, with all that was in him, that he had first had a new spiritual heart transplant before it became necessary for a physical one. A new heart towards God was what he had needed most and thought it least important of all. If only now, he could tell all his former friends and family the great important fact that he now knew to be true.

If he only had another chance, both for himself and for others. There is no other chance. His sobbing soul passed through the wide gate that said "Enter The Doomed" and he knew he was at the mouth of Hell.

Heart disease (dis-ease) is a discomfort that is suffered by man both in the body and also in the spirit. Spiritual heart disease is plaguing the whole of mankind. We all need a spiritual heart transplant.

Offer of salvation

God has warned us that the heart of man is more conducive to evil than to good things. It is corrupt and full of carnality and lust and the only way of cleansing the heart to be pure enough towards God is to be born again through God's offer of Salvation through His Son, Christ Jesus.

The offer is the acceptance of his sacrifice, and let The Doctor of Doctors create in you a new heart. One that is full of love toward the ways of the Lord and also to his fellow man.

We, still in this earth-bound body, have the opportunity to accept the love of God. A new heart is awaiting all those who will answer His pleading, as He wills that no man be lost.

Edgar West, had his new heart, but he chose the wrong kind. He forgot to seek the Lord in his youth. He followed the path of least resistance and forgot that he had an eternal soul.

How is it with your soul? As we have a physical hospital for the body, the church is a spiritual hospital for the soul. Attend and have perhaps the first spiritual check-up in your life this week.

Stroudsburg's Zion UCC to install deacons, elders

STROUDSBURG — The worship service at Zion United Church of Christ, 14 N. Eighth St., will be held at 11 a.m. Sunday when newly appointed deacons and elders will be ordained and installed, while recently elected church consistory officers are to be installed and consecrated.

Newly appointed Deacons are Calvin Schoch and Henry Antoine.

Deacons re-elected to their positions are Mrs. Alice Hilyard and Emmett Fabel. Mrs. Marguerite Hiller has been elevated from the post of Deacon to that of Elder, while Hugh Altomose was re-elected to the position of Elder.

All of those posts are to be served for three year terms. Samuel Flick has been elected president of the church consistory. Hugh Altomose was re-elected Treasurer and Mrs. Marguerite Hiller re-elected as secretary.

The Mite Choir is scheduled to participate in the service with the singing of three short selections entitled, "My Heart Runneth Over," "Jesus Loves Me" and "Heaven Is A Happy Place." The anthem for the morning will be presented by the Teen-Senior Choir and is entitled "Rock of Ages" by Dudley Buck.

The solo portion of the anthem is to be sung by Miss Cheryl Transue. The congregational hymn of the Month for February will be the favorite, "Nearer My God To Thee." The sermon, "The Holy Hold-Up," to be preached by the Rev. Marshall J. Ritt, pastor, will be concerned with the need for persons in authority in the church to be assisted and supported by the members of the congregation.

Church School begins at 9:45 a. m.

Adults discuss movement

200 at Cresco ecumenical dinner

CRESO — The second ecumenical dinner with participants from five Barrett and Paradise Township churches was held in Pocono Central Catholic High School recently.

More than 200 adults and children gathered for a casserole dinner at 6 p. m. in the school cafeteria.

Following the dinner, smaller children were entertained by teens of the congregations in a room adjacent to the cafeteria while older children were shown a series of cartoons by Sister Andrew.

More than 100 adults gathered in the auditorium at 7 p. m. to participate in a panel discussion of the Bible with Rev. Vernon Murray, Rev. John N. Roberts and Rev. Andrew Maloney on the panel.

Pastor Roberts, representing the Mountainhome Methodist Church, acted as moderator for the discussion and explained that the 800 years since the advent of Martin Luther had not displayed any split in the basic agreement in all Christian creeds in the belief in the Bible.

He introduced the pastor of St. Bernadette's Roman Catholic Church, Father Maloney, who agreed that there is no real difference between what laymen term the "Catholic" and "Protestant" Bibles. He pointed out that the composition of the Bible is a collection of 72 books which contain God's word in sequence based on historic, instructional and prophetic works.

All Bibles are based on a canon that is books which were declared inspired by clerics centuries ago. Some Bibles include books which are not considered by other canonical meetings as being inspired but in the main, all Bibles contain the inspired writings.

Under consideration
Rev. Maloney went on to explain that there are a number of books which are being considered even today as being inspired, due to the recent discoveries of manuscripts which have been reported by archaeologists, such as the Dead Sea Scrolls.

The basis for all Bibles is the Council of Trent held in 1546 which listed the books to be contained in the New Testament.

Father Maloney pointed out that the inspiration of a book is not based on what is said by the canon but whether or not the book is felt to be work inspired by God.

The pastor of the Canadensis Methodist Church, Rev. Murray, discussed inspiration and interpretation of the Bible. He told the group that originally people believed that God actually moved the hand of the writer which was called inspired writing. But, more current thought on the subject is that God worked through the writers who wrote down what had been an oral tradition from God.

Rev. Murray said that people point to differences or discrepancies in the Bible and call it into doubt. He said that close reading of the first three gospels would discover differences, such as the differences three different people would give in recalling the same traffic accident: "A doctor would be concerned with the condition of the humans involved; a garage mechanic would be taken with the types of cars and damages to them, while another person would notice something else," he explained.

The main point of Rev. Murray's thoughts was the fact that the Bible is a book of God's Word which tells "Why" and that there ought not to be any conflict for Christians in science which he said tells "how." Interpretation of the Bible is based on the "why" of an incident or story or event, not on the "how" of it, he explained.

Rev. Roberts closed the discussion with the topic of devotion and study of the Bible. He suggested that a person study the Bible in reasonable sequence and that the use of two translations would clarify what might otherwise be obscure points. Newer translations lack the familiar Old English construction but clarify the reasons for modern readers.

Meet needs

The use of a biblical commentary was also suggested. He said that the Bible is not ancient history, but rather that it meets the needs of the present age and is everyman's solution to everyday modern problems.

In the question and answer period which followed, people discussed the applicability of the Bible to modern living and the lack of Bible reading in the schools. The three ministers agreed that the family is now, more than ever, responsible for maintaining the religious training children receive in church atmospheres.

Pastors placed the responsibility of religious training on parents and pointed out that parents were in the best possible position to see that children receive a good religious background and continued to use their religious training which is augmented in church attendance and activities in church sponsored activities.

Rev. Roberts told the group that quite often people were more concerned with the vehicle for God's word rather than the meaning of the Word. He suggested that parents and readers look deeper into the meaning of the words rather than a strict literal interpretation.

Other churches represented were the Canadensis Moravian Church, whose pastor, Rev. James Gross was on vacation, and the Paradise Valley Keokee Chapel, whose pastor, Rev. Russell Walters was absent due to illness.

The event was labeled a success by participants and will be continued in the future. Adjuncts to this portion of the ecumenical movement in the area are the combined worship services during Lent and, a combined Thanksgiving service. Pastors are planning on calling on members of their congregations to form a combined choir under the direction of Robert Lane for music during the Lenten season.

Russian Baptists independent

By GEORGE W. Cornell

AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Unsettling, internal strains are afflicting Baptists in the Soviet Union today, resulting in some peculiar twists, in which church leaders sometimes take the side of their religious foes, even while at odds with them.

Simply put, it's a matter of believers sticking by each other, despite conflict among themselves, when some of them get in trouble with the state.

In the process, some of the family feud appears to be fading.

That's the picture emerging here through reports from the Washington, D.C., office of the Baptist World Alliance, and statements from Russian Baptist leaders.

There are approximately 550,000 Baptists in Russia, second only in number to the 50 million faithful claimed by Russian Orthodoxy. The worldwide Baptist constituency totals 28 million in 122 countries.

Independent
Wherever they are, they've typically been an independent-minded people, stressing the autonomy of each congregation, an individual approach to the Bible and aversion to encroachments by government.

That is what lit the smoldering tension in Russia, and brought out the issue of Christian civil disobedience—also a church question in this country in relation to the draft for Vietnam.

With characteristic evangelical fervor, Baptists have kept the movement growing through the years of monarchy under the Russian czars, the Bolshevik Revolution and into the modern era of Communist rule.

As the World Alliance report puts it, "Today in practically every city and town in the vast territory of the U.S.S.R., there is a Baptist church or group"—altogether more than 5,000 full-fledged congregations.

The current rift among them arose over whether they should abide by the government's religious restrictions, which require registration of congregational officers and ban study classes and various service programs.

Regular worship is permitted, but not much else.

Adherence to the law has been the standing policy of the main body of Baptists, the All-Union Council of Evangelical Christians-Baptists.

The dissenting minority, known as the "Initiative group," charges the Baptist Union leaders with being too subservient to state regulations—and has proceeded to ignore them openly in numerous cases.

As a result, more than 200 of them have been imprisoned, according to a report compiled by Adolf Klaupek of Washington, D.C., relief coordinator for the Baptist World Alliance.

Baptist Union leaders themselves, he said, have appealed to Soviet authorities, pleading for leniency for the opposition leaders imprisoned.

Some of the opposition groups have swung back to the Baptist Union's side, the report said, and a "Committee on Reconciliation" has been working to further heal the breach.

Klaupek traces it back to 1961 when a few Baptists began proclaiming that the second coming of Christ would be seen, and saying the church must be purified and the present Baptist leadership replaced.

New interest in flag

By Norman B. Lehde

The reopening of the Ford Theater in Washington, D.C., has rekindled interest in the flag in the Pike County Historical Society and its connection with the tragedy which closed the theater in April of 1885.

The flag was presented to the society by the Struthers family, whose members were descendants of Thomas Gourlay, Gourlay and four of his children were all in the theater the night that Lincoln was assassinated by John Wilkes Booth.

Thomas Gourlay, his daughters Jennie and Margaret, were members of the cast of "Our American Cousin." Two of his sons, Thomas Jr. and Robert were in the audience.

Gourlay was one of the men who helped carry Lincoln from the theater to a house across the street. Gourlay covered the dying president with a flag before they carried him from the theater.

When Vivian Paul Struthers, a grandson of Thomas Gourlay and a son of Miss Jennie (who was playing one of the leading roles in the play that night) presented the flag to the society, he stated he believed it to be the flag used to cover the president that night.

It had been saved by the family and never mentioned by them in newspaper interviews. Jeannie Gourlay, later Mrs. Robert Struthers, lived to the age of 83. She shunned publicity in later life, but every year, the anniversary of Lincoln's death usually brought newspapermen to her home to interview her on the tragedy and ask her about her memories of the night. She had just left the stage, leaving actor Harry Hawk alone, when the fatal shot was fired.

There are those who question the authenticity of the flag connection with Lincoln. One thing is certain, the family was there and in a position to acquire the flag, which has 36 stars and is soiled with brown red stains, in the manner described. As noted above, the family never publicized the flag or made any attempt to make personal gain from having it in its possession.

Vivian Struthers, who was an officer in World War I and a man of fierce patriotism, and his sister, Miss Effie, presented the flag to the historical society at a regular meeting without great fanfare.

Perhaps, with the Ford Theater reopened, the flag and its story will come before the national eye. Perhaps, too, it may never be established to the satisfaction of all, that it actually covered the president and the stains thereon are his blood.

Certainly, through the family of Thomas Gourlay, a number of whose descendants still reside in the area, Milford had a very close link with the tragedy. Jeannie Gourlay Struthers resided in Milford for many years.

No part she ever played during her career as an actress ever approached the drama in which she was involved in Ford's Theater when she was a 19 year old dark-haired Scottish beauty.

IMPORTANT MEETINGS on the local scene next week include the Milford Borough Council on Monday and Delaware Valley School Board on Thursday.

Folks in the Milford area can now call their friends and relatives in Matamoras and Port Jervis more often. These calls went off the toll list on Tuesday.

The very pleasant break in the local weather picture saw January ease quietly into February and a few local prophets, without consulting the groundhog or anyone else, being optimistic enough to declare the worst of the winter behind us.

THE STERLING Committee of the Pike County Planning Commission, which is chaired by Fred Schoenagle of Greentown, met at the Court House Annex last Friday. Thomas Knoch, a planner from Tira, addressed the meeting and suggested the commission prepare an inventory of resources in the area.

This action, it will be recalled, was recommended by Philip H. Lewis during the Design Action Conference last autumn. Knoch volunteered his assistance and the assistance of TIRAC for such a project.

Three members at large have been added to this special steering committee. They are: Joseph Ricciardi of Matamoras, Mrs. Cynthia Van Lierde of Dingman Township and Mrs. Helen Jung, Palmyra Township.

Dingman to feature workshop

DINGMANS FERRY — The Dingman Township Planning Commission has instituted bi-monthly workshop sessions for all Pike County planning commissions and supervisors.

The workshop sessions are scheduled to begin on the second and third Tuesday of each month at the Delaware Township Fire Department at 7:30 p.m.

Raymond Angle, Delaware Township Board of Supervisors secretary, said that the workshop sessions will be coordinated with Joseph Staley, official of the Pike County Extension Service.

The sessions are designed specifically for improved operations of the various planning commissions in the county.

Revised advertising. The Board of Supervisors, at their regular monthly meeting Thursday, also approved to advertise a revised sewage facilities ordinance for the township which is expected to be adopted March 7.

The township has had a sewage facilities ordinance for five years, but the revised regulations incorporates various articles from Pennsylvania's new Sewage Act 537.

Supervisors are retaining Monroe Engineering, Stroudsburg, to survey and map the intersection of Routes 209 and 739 at Dingmans Ferry.

After the survey is completed, supervisors will request permission from the State Highway Department to erect a traffic signal. Nearly a dozen persons were injured at the intersection in a two car collision recently.

Supervisors are also preparing specifications for bids on the 1968 road oiling and black topping projects.

Three budgets on display

By BERT WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

MILFORD — Proposed 1968 budgets for Delaware, Dingman and Lehman Townships in Pike County were put on public display this week to allow residents to review the budgets before their final adoption.

Delaware Township has retained its nine-mill tax rate, which has not been increased in about 10 years. Dingman Township retained its eight-mill tax rate which had remained the same for the past two to three years. (Budget highlights for the three townships are:

Township supervisors prepared a budget totalling $53,245 in expenditures. A total $39,586 of the budget will be spent on road construction and maintenance. Of the funds appropriated for roads, a total $15,686 is derived from liquid fuel funds and $23,897 from the township revenue.

The second highest expenditures is the $5,647 budgeted for general government. The funds will pay the tax collector, supervisors, building rental, etc.

The third highest expenditure is $5,590 for health and sanitation. Supervisors also appropriated $1,500 for the Planning Commission and $750 for the Civil Defense.

Other expenditures, totaling $4,224 will be used to pay insurance, social security and payments of loans on two trucks.

A total $40,445 in revenue is anticipated from the nine mill tax rate in addition to various fees, licenses permits.

Dingman Township Township supervisors prepared a budget totalling $24,478 in expenditures.

A total $14,450 of the appropriations is budgeted for road construction and maintenance. The second highest expenditure is the $5,285 for township building maintenance and $2,065 for general government. A total $670 is appropriated for tax collection.

The township anticipates a total $14,022 in revenue from the eight mill tax rate and $184 from the occupation tax.

Lehman Township Township supervisors prepared a proposed $39,527 budget calling for a two mill increase. The millage, if the budget is adopted, will be 12.

Anticipated revenues from the 12 mill tax rate is expected to yield $27,733. The Township also expects a total $1,447 from liquid fuel tax.

A total $6,361 is budgeted for road construction and maintenance from the state fund and $12,122 from the township fund.

Pike manufacturing

Employee totals decline

(Record Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG — The number of workers employed, in Pike County manufacturing industries dropped 26 during 1966 to a total average work force of 140, a State Department of Internal Affairs industrial survey of the county shows.

The number of manufacturing plants in the county also showed a decline — dipping one to 19 in 1966.

Of the total manufacturing work force of 140 in the county, 90 were men and 50 women. Figures for 1965 show 92 men and 74 women employed in Pike County industries.

Of the 140 employees, 126 were classified as "production and related workers" with 82 male employees and 44 female. (Production workers include workers and foremen whose work is associated with the manufacturing operations of the establishment.)

Other employees (supervisory employees above the working foreman level, sales employees, clerical and other office employees and corporation officials) included eight male workers and six female.

Pike County's industrial employees received wages and salaries rounding out to $906,000. In 1965 wages and salaries amounted to $863,000.

The department pointed out that Pike County is a resort and recreation area, with relatively few industrial plants. As a result, changes within one industry will reflect fairly important changes in percentage figures for the county.

Accordingly department figures show the number of employees decreased 16 per cent during 1966 while wages and salaries decreased eight per cent.

Other statistics included in the report: capital expenditures during 1966 amounted to $32,000 as compared with $50,000 a year earlier; value of production and related activities stood at $1,926,000 — down from $1,968,000 a year earlier, and value added by manufacture stood at $1,091,000 as against the 1965 total of $1,098,000.

Pike group donates $50

MILFORD — A $50 contribution was made by the Pike County Chamber of Commerce to the Economic Development Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania.

The contribution will help pay the cost of an industrial advertisement in the National Economic Review section of the New York Times. The board of directors had discussed the advertisement for some time.

Previously, the Chamber had asked the Pike County Commissioners to contribute $750 towards the advertisement. The Commissioners rejected the request on the grounds that the advertisement would not aid Pike County.

Four decrees of divorce handed down

STROUDSBURG — Four divorce decrees were handed down recently by President Judge Arlington W. Williams. Mary Ellen Ralston Fontanella, 50, 112 Park Ave., Stroudsburg, from Mervin Frey Fontanella, 55, Cresco R.D. 1, on the grounds of indignities.

John J. Notari, 40, East Stroudsburg R.D., 2, from Arlene M. Conklin Notari, 37, East Orange, N.J., indignities and desertion.

Charles L. Posten, 41, 129 N. Third St., Stroudsburg, from Constance A. Chambers Posten, 38, Media, indignities.

Richard W. Staples, 42, 513 Stokes Ave., East Stroudsburg, from Dorothy C. Datko Staples, 34, Rockford, Ill., desertion.

Indians key issue in lecture

BANGOR — Mrs. George Stiles was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Tri-Hi-Y held at Bangor Senior High. Her topic was "The American Indian."

Mrs. Stiles, who has visited 24 Indian tribes, spoke about their living conditions. "The Indian boy," she said, "has never climbed a pair of stairs, nor seen an electric light, nor a telephone. He cannot speak English or read a book."

She also pointed out that Indian babies die seven times more often than most, that 45 per cent of the Indians are unemployed, and that very few are motivated to do something better for themselves.

During the business meeting, Beth Roberts, president, announced that Kay Hahn had been named Eastern District chaplain for the Model United Nations Assembly to be held in March at the Education Forum Building in Harrisburg.

Proposals for the Model United Nations Assembly were prepared at the Eastern District meeting held in Lansdale.

The meeting was attended by Beth Roberts, Kay Hahn, Kathy Heard, Tanya Kaufman, Susan Roberts, Sharon Mitchell and the club advisor, Mrs. Hosier.

Commission okays $500 for soil unit

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners have approved a $500 advance to the area Soil Conservation Service to send a representative to a SCS national convention in Dallas, Texas.

The move to grant the sum was approved on a suggestion by commissioner Arlington Martin speaking for the conservation district of which he is a board member.

The advance was made although Board Chairman Elwood Hintze said he failed to see "what local benefit" could be derived by sending a representative to Texas.

Stress importance. Both House and Republican commissioners Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis stressed the importance for economizing in the SCS as well as other county agencies.

In other business the board approved overtime pay for mappers in the chief assessor's office.

Newfoundland resident graduates at Bloomsburg

NEWFOUNDLAND — Margaret "Peggy" Wohlfart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Wohlfart, Newfoundland, was graduated from Bloomsburg State College with a degree of bachelor of science in elementary education with the January class.

There were 125 members of the class, first to hold commencement exercises in the new Haas Auditorium on campus.

Miss Wohlfart, a graduate of Wallenpaupack Area Joint High School, was a member of the school band and the marching band, and the ski club.

She completed her practice teaching in the Cheltenham School District at Elkins Park, near Philadelphia, and the day after her graduation from Bloomsburg began teaching first grade at the Saucon Valley School District in Hellertown.

She is residing in Hellertown.

Katz to seek committee seat

STROUDSBURG — Edward A. Katz, 1805 Laurel St., Stroudsburg, announced Thursday night he will be a Republican candidate for the state committee seat in the 18th Senatorial District.

Incumbent Forrest Sebring, Monroe County sheriff, will not seek re-election to the two-year post.

Thieves enter Bangor firm

BANGOR — An attempted entry was made early Wednesday at the State Belt Buick-Pontiac Co., South Main St., Bangor, but nothing was stolen, Bangor police said.

A broken window was discovered at the rear of the garage by Patrolman Thomas Cuono at 3 a.m.

Russell Brown, manager, was notified, but could find nothing stolen from the garage.

Optimistic view of Asian setbacks

It is possible to tie together the dramatic moves by Communist allies in the last few days—and it is possible to separate them.

It seems fair enough here, however, to read ultimate optimism into temporary misfortune. This is based on the theory widely held that the Red side seeks no quick decision in Vietnam and, in fact, is doing its best work when it keeps allied forces on the move, avoids confrontation and ties the U.S. up to a multi-year seige.

If this is true, it is possible to assess the Pueblo as a diversion out of necessity. "Do something to ease the pressure," insisted Ho Chi Minh, and the only other places where rival military forces are face to face are Berlin and Korea. Berlin would have to involve Russia itself. Thus, Korea had to be it.

The same sort of desperation can be read into the outbreaks in South Vietnam. It might remind a few old soldiers of the Battle of the Bulge in the winter of 1944-45. Germany was less than half a year away from total defeat when the Wehrmacht rallied for one last round-house punch. In retrospect it only delayed the end and cost a few more lives but at the time it was bloody serious to those involved and a few even suggested it could be a turning point against the Allies.

Today hardly anyone doubts that the Allies in South Vietnam will, at the present rate of concentration, eventually negate the Cong and drive out the North, but no one can more than guess how soon. To take an optimistic view of current adversity, it's possible that "eventually" is closer than most of us supposed.

State minimum short of federal standard

A large item on the Associated Press wire this week noted that the federal minimum wage had gone up to $1.60 per hour. The same day a much smaller item noted that the minimum wage in Pennsylvania had gone up too—from $1 to $1.15.

There are hardship cases for employers, of course, just as there have been over many years hardship cases for employees. But the sad point is the difference between the federal minimum and the minimum of our state, one of the most populous in the industrial East.

The national minimum only applies to those employed in interstate commerce, in the production of goods for interstate commerce or in certain large industries. It is possible, then, for industries side by side in, say, Stroudsburg, to be paying drastically different wages to people who look pretty much the same as they walk in and out of the adjacent plants.

Of course, you say an employer is going to get the quality of work that he pays for and this is more than likely true. The better workers would gravitate to the better paying plant. Still, what is Pennsylvania's excuse for sanctioning legal pay below federal standards?

Is the federal standard that figures out to $64 for a 40-hour week before taxes high or is our state's that figures to $46 per week, too low? Yes, "it depends" but is Uncle Sam THAT wrong?

Coin corner

Design for trouble

BY ROBERT SVENSSON

As any student of the arts will tell you, the paths that artists tread are often strewn with boulders and overgrown with thorns. The troubles that beset Michelangelo, Gauguin, Van Gogh, Lautrec, Rodin and others of the craft make the life of a one-armed paper hanger seem poetic.

What has this to do with coins you ask?

Well, the artists who design coins have fared no better than their brothers of the palette and chisel, it seems. Take the case of Bela Lyon Pratt.

Very early in this century, artist Pratt decided that what this country needed was a good new coin design. Something different from any that had ever been seen or produced by the United States Mint.

This, certainly, was his first mistake. People do not take kindly to young men with radically new ideas.

Pratt's new idea was to sink the coin design in the metal rather than raise it which had been the custom. Somehow he obtained the blessing of those in high office and proceeded with this project.

In 1908 Pratt's coins made their public debut. They were $2.50 and $5 Gold Pieces. Both the obverse and reverse designs were incisive—below, not above the surface of the metal.

A hue and cry was quickly raised. First, the dissenters attacked the incuse idea as "unhygienic," claiming dirt would pile up in the sunken design and spread disease. A plague was sure to descend.

Even worse, Pratt's beautiful Indian Head design was called "inferly miserable and hideous." Then the eagle on the reverse was criticized as being a European, not an American eagle. The latter was really ironic inasmuch as the same eagle was used on the St. Gaudens $10 gold coin of 1907, and had been widely acclaimed as a perfect example of the American bird.

Pueblo incident first of series

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is being warned that the seizure of the USS Pueblo is only the first of a series of converging crises the U. S. will face before the coming presidential election.

The President's intelligence advisers believe the Kremlin is setting the stage for a series of closely connected crises in Korea, Vietnam, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, and Berlin that will involve U. S. forces with those of other Communist nations, but not the Soviets directly.

At all of these East-west confrontation points, the Russians are supplying vast new amounts of arms, increasing their military advisers and technicians, and encouraging local Communist leaders to stir up new trouble for the U. S.

An interchange of information between the Central Intelligence Agency and the Federal Bureau of Investigation reveals that the new crises will be linked closely to the outbreak of new racial rioting and increased anti-war demonstrations in the U. S.

For example, North Vietnam's big offensive against the U. S. Marines near the demilitarized zone is being timed to coincide with the February anti-war protests, most of whom will be clergymen.

The other coming crises, including those brewing in the Dominican Republic and Berlin, are expected to explode during the spring and summer when Dr. Martin Luther King is "disrupting" Washington with his "massive disobedience" program.

NEXT CRISIS POINT — Most immediate danger area outside of Vietnam and Korea now appears to be the Dominican Republic, where Havana-trained terrorists are beginning to return in large numbers.

Alexander A. Soldatov, the new Soviet ambassador to Cuba, has been given the assignment of directing the overthrow of the pro-U. S. government in that nearby Caribbean trouble spot.

Soldatov, a 53-year-old deputy foreign minister, is now reportedly helping Castro weed out all Cuban officials and party leaders opposed to involving Cuba in the dangerous Dominican Republic operation.

Since the seizure of the USS Pueblo, the U. S. has intercepted a message Castro sent Kim Il-Sung, the Soviet-trained premier of North Korea, pledging to open a "third front" against the U. S. "at the appropriate time."

Snow white Olympics

WASHINGTON — Jean-Claude Killy, the foremost skier of France and presently the world, has servants to rig up his skis and boots for him. Oddly enough, this item helps explain why the American team at the 1976 Winter Olympics will not have a Negro on the roster.

Killy, according to Sports Illustrated, trusts his servants to wax skis for him. But his sub-par record in pre-Olympic skiing indicates that the trust may well have been misplaced.

As the Killy indulgence serves to illustrate, the barrier in winter sports, even in the Olympic Winter Games, is not racial but financial. Negro athletes may make up one-fourth to one-third of our team for the Summer Games in Mexico next October. But low income has virtually eliminated Negroes from the so-called esoteric sports — with the recent exception of tennis and golf. High costs of equipment and instruction tend to keep Negroes out of winter sports competition.

Soviet Russia has "won" the past three winter Olympics. The 103-member U. S. team in 1964 won only one gold medal, two silver medals, and three bronze medals — the poorest American showing since 1936. The Soviet Union captured 11 gold medals as well as eight silver and six bronze medals. Austria, Norway, Finland, France, Germany, and Sweden each won more medals at Innsbruck than the United States.

Russia first competed in the winter Olympics in 1956. Its team won seven gold, three silver, and six bronze medals and first place in the unofficial standings.

Significantly, Castro in his message praised Premier Kim "for diverting American men and ships from the Vietnam war" and "helping to increase the peace-war contradictions inside the U. S."

Premier Kim, who reached the rank of general in the Soviet Army before going to North Korea, wrote in a publication that followed the Tri-Continental conference of Communist nations in Havana early in 1967 "wars of national liberation should be started around the globe." He stressed that "nations like North Korea and Cuba should take the lead in helping North Vietnam by launching diversionary military actions."

Arrival of late model jet aircraft from Russia during the past nine months has boosted Cuba's air force to 230 planes and makes it clearly the dominant force in the Caribbean.

In the past year several crack regiments of Castro's 90,000-man army have been equipped with new Soviet arms and shifted into nearly prepared defense positions near the U. S. Naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

PLANS FOR BERLIN — In East Germany the Russians several months ago began stockpiling 120-days' supply of food and military equipment, including all types of spare parts and ammunition, with the East Berlin armored divisions that now encircle West Berlin.

Since the Kremlin's policy has been to limit these forces to a week's supply, this change is considered to have major military significance.

One military intelligence group, which correctly forecast last July that the next major crisis would come in Korea this winter, warned that the supply build-up is preparation for a possible blockade of West Berlin later this year.

Their report points out that Soviet party boss Leonid Brezhnev and Secretary Mikhail A. Suslov held a highly unusual meeting in January with all the top East German military and civilian officials in East Berlin.

Brezhnev and Suslov made the trip, according to these intelligence experts, to discuss plans and timing for a series of new probing actions to test U. S. will in West Berlin.

It is also the opinion of this group of intelligence experts that the seizure of the USS Pueblo is part of a synchronized general Communist operation for taking pressure off of North Vietnam by involving U. S. forces in numerous diversionary actions.

The star of the Russian team in 1964 was Lidija Skoblikova, a 24-year-old physical education instructor, who won gold medals in all four women's speed skating events, setting new Olympic records in three of them. The only American gold medal winner was Terry McDermott, a 23-year-old barber from Essexville, Mich.

Soviet contestants are kept in training camps during many months of the year. In contrast, members of the American speed skating team on which McDermott competed did not get together until Dec. 1, 1963, less than two months before the games.

"All athletes are workers," the Communists say. By that is meant all are paid. The difference between U. S. and Communist concepts of amateurism is long standing. The fact is that when the ancient Olympic games were held, amateurism was rarely an issue. The U. S. attitude is ambivalent if not astigmatic.

The Nazis in the Berlin Olympics of 1936 were frequently embarrassed by the victory of America's Negro athletes. The world saw it as a score for freedom when Jesse Owens sprinted for gold medals in the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes and the broad jump.

Now Negroes threaten to boycott the trials for the 1968 Summer Olympics. They allege mistreatment of Negroes in this country. In a statement last December, Tommie Smith and Lee Evans, two of the world's top track stars, also charged the New York Athletic Club with discrimination against Negroes and Jews.

Stores offer little dairy selection

Editor, the Record:

I am tired of going shopping in the large food stores and when passing the dairy case hear all the women grumbling about the selection they have to choose from in the line of dairy products. I think it is about time the housewives wise up and do something about the fact that most large food stores are now offering only one selection of dairy products instead of giving a choice.

All these years we have had a selection of dairy products as well as a variety of canned goods, baked goods, etc., to choose from. It seems it does no good to complain to the managers about this most annoying situation.

Since our large food stores don't seem to carry local dairy products, the housewives and the farmers should do their marketing in stores where the storekeeper still believes in the old saying, "The Customer is Always Right."

Do these stores really have you the customer in mind?

Clergymen can't agree among themselves

Editor, The Record:

A newspaper report of the poll of 3000 clergymen by McCall's magazine follows: "A majority of the younger clergymen could not be said to believe in the Virgin Birth, or to regard Jesus as Divine according to their past traditions. 'Nearly half of the clergymen in their twenties through the forties confess that they have thought seriously of leaving the ministry.' A major ten per cent have found the ministry 'A totally satisfying profession.'"

"Only twenty per cent of the 3000 clergymen polled by McCall's magazine said they did not believe in God." These are tough moments, in a tough world, for the clergy. Over sixty per cent of their memberships favored the conduct of the war in Vietnam, despite the fact that 30 per cent of their clergy openly protested against the war."

Thus the clergy has lost that old time influence in church, community and nation. Indeed, they have openly warred against the President in time of war in nearly every field. Half have opposed the other half in all these controversial situations, and have no united front.

Note the revolution in the Catholic Church: For 1960 years they forbade their subjects to eat meat on Fridays. Now it is permitted. And note the modifications in Catholic masses and the attire of the Nuns (all good); while the Pope even now is confronted with very urgent problems of birth control, priests desire for marriage (Peter was married), and the open rebellion of the Dutch Catholic Church, near heresy according to the journal that reported this matter.

It is not feasible to harmonize these conflicting creeds of men with the infallible truths of the Bible. There are over a billion Christians in the world and this membership generally confesses that after a life-time they do not understand the Bible! Jesus covered this matter: Luke 18:8, "When the Son of Man cometh, shall he find (real) faith on the earth?"

The creeds or opinions of the various founders of the denominations originated in the fourth century, before the invention of the printing press, and the flood of knowledge of fulfilled prophecy; while Proverbs says "The path of the just is as a shining light that shineth more unto the perfect day of the Lord's kingdom." They still maintain the creeds of the fourth century.

Jesus said, "I will be with you always (church); where two or three are gathered together, in my name, I will be with them (as teacher), even to the end of the age!"

Again, Jesus said, "Fear not little flock (not billions), it is the Father's good pleasure to give you (a part in) the kingdom." Only a little flock could be rulers in any kingdom; and 1 Cor. 6:2,3 says "The Saints (church) shall (then) judge men on earth and angels in heaven."

Christ is still the head of his invisible church, "not made with hands!"

Retire congressmen

Editor, The Record:

After watching the State of the Union Message and the Republican rebuttal I want to suggest that it is time to change some of our sleeper Congressmen. Without diminishing my delightful senior citizens, the thought occurs that the United States Congress is one of the few places which does not have a compulsory retirement age.

Perhaps it is time that we insisted that men in Congress retire at age 65 or finish out the term in which the 55th birthday falls. This way the men who have served long years may move out gracefully and make room for new minds and therefore new ideas.

I am not saying that all younger men are superior but at least new faces may produce new approaches. Our old leadership has not produced solutions. The latest crisis seems to have brought forth the same old cries of anger from the old men who scream ferociously at every insult but can't seem to comprehend that their leadership has made the greatest nation the laughing stock of the world.

Chi Chi's revenge

The first time I saw Chi-Chi she was fourth from the left in a Broadway musical, lifting the right knee in tempo with the other girls, then flexing the leg straight out and dropping it to the stage. The last time I saw her she was in court, both knees jelled, as a cornerer acquitted her.

Between those times, she was small and dark and shapely, with shiny black hair to the shoulders. The eyes were large Concord grapes, trusting and ignorant. For men, the key to Chi-Chi was a hard luck story. Aggression didn't work; gifts meant nothing; but pity opened all the doors.

Chester married her. He deserves a special chapter because his father died early and left this yellow mophead more money than there is in Switzerland. The kid had no personality at all, except for a tinge of paranoia. He was sure that every doorman who nodded was trying to get his money. Secretly, he thought of himself as clever. One step ah ad of the moochers.

Chi-Chi had a few dates with him, and almost had to pay for her own drinks. When he proposed marriage, after a mass conference with family lawyers, Chi-Chi said yes because she felt that Chester was a poor little rich boy who couldn't deduct one apple from three apples without screaming "Stop thief!"

The honeymoon was spent on Chester's family estate near Spindale, N. C. Chi-Chi was content because she had never felt an emotion, except compassion, so she kept telling her friends that there was nothing new. Chester, on the other hand, was as happy as a nut with a steam shovel inside Fort Knox. He chided her for not looking ahead.

Look ahead at what? she asked. Chester sat in the drawing room, under the oil portraits of his august ancestors, and told her that one must always look ahead in life. Otherwise, one can be swindled by mercenary women. Chi-Chi said she didn't understand. From his wallet, Chester took a photo and displayed it to his bride at a safe distance.

It was not a pleasant photo. It showed Chi-Chi and a theatre orchestra leader in a naughty pose. The law refers to it as flagrante delicto. The musician wasn't even wearing his baton. "That," said Chi-Chi angrily, "was something which happened long before I met you."

"I know, I know," said Chester soothingly. "But I have paid this silly man a good sum to swear that it was taken after we were married." The bride began to weep. "Why?" she begged. "Why?" Chester smiled condescendingly. "So that," he said, "if you ever leave me for any reason, I can nail you in court for adultery and you won't get a dime of my daddy's scratch."

She said she didn't want money. "What I am trying to teach you," her husband said, "is always to look ahead. You are naive. You have a sweet innocence about you, and the innocent were made to be taken by those who look ahead — Me."

It was never much of a marriage. Still, Chi-Chi was so ignorant that she still felt sorry for him. Now and then, when she was happy, and humming around the palatial mansion like a mocking bird, he would flash the picture at her and the diminutive damsel would fall from twittering to tears.

Out of the household money, she saved $3,000 and asked him if she should buy a small amount of stock. Y's, Chester said, "Buy Klautmeyer's Frankfurters at eight and a quarter." She bought. In a month it was selling at two. Chi-Chi cried.

"See?" he said. "You don't look ahead. I knew that Klautmeyer had a disastrous year. You can't get that stock away. There was nothing to keep you from looking it up."

"I trust my husband," she said, moaning. "Ah," he said, "another mistake. I trust nobody. I not only have every dollar dear dead daddy left to me, but two million more acorns I picked up swindling a few friends."

Into the brush. He forced her to ride to hounds, when he knew she hated horses. He ordered her to fly in his plane when she was terrified. Nor was he above telling snide little jokes about Chi-Chi to his friends.

In the autumn, he demanded that she join his hunting party even though he knew that she could not bear to see an animal hurt. She trudged the hummocks of pin oaks, pine and beech at his side.

Once, she looked up at some wild rhododendron. "There," she whispered. "Quail." Chester said, "Shh. I'll flush 'em, and you'd better get at least one of 'em show that picture to my guests." He crept over, quietly, and into the bush.

Chi-Chi stood poised as the others moved off. Her husband stood up in the bush. "You nut," he said. "There's no—." Two shots rang out. The first missed. The second gave Chester a third ear in his head. In court, the coroner gave all the estate to Chi-Chi. "It's a pity," he said, "that, before firing that gun, you didn't look ahead."

STEREOTYPE

One process in printing consists of pressing a moist layer of paper-mache against a page of type. The process is simply one of making a mold, for the whole page of type makes an impression in the paper-mache.

Molten metal is poured over the paper-mache, and the resultant metal plate is cooled, trimmed, put on a press and copies of the page are run off.

The process was named by a Frenchman, who called it "stereotype," from the Greek "stereon" (solid) and "type."

The pages printed from the stereotype plate are all alike, therefore, "stereotype" gained a new meaning, especially in speech, as if produced by a stereotype.

ZEST
The practice of putting orange or lemon peel into food or drink to give it piquancy is centuries old.

The English learned it from the French, and the French, no doubt, learned it from some of the peoples along the Mediterranean.

The French name for lemon or orange peel was "zeste," which became "zest" in English.

As is often the case, "zest" acquired a broader meaning — something that gives piquancy or relish to food, drink, one's action or speech.

Lady who welcomes 8,000 visitors a day

Stroudsburg — The Soroptimist Club of Monroe County, which will be host to the North Atlantic Regional Conference of Soroptimist International at Pocono Manor on March 28-31, took time out from planning their duties to hear a woman who has been host to as many as 8,000 persons a day.

She is Esther Mottis, better known as Pocono Pete of Big Pocono. She showed slides of the Big Pocono State Park of which she is manager. The slides included pictures of the picnic area, the information booth with Yogi Bear and the display room where Mrs. Mottis has mounted many of the animals native to the area.

Her Yogi Bear is an attraction for children who like to have their pictures taken with him, she said. Children and elderly folks get her special attention, she said, and she will go out of her way to make them comfortable.

She also goes out of her way to take any project pertaining to the preservation of the animals, trees, flowers and shrubs of the park. While she has raised many young animals, she does not make pets of them, she said, because they would become too tame to protect themselves when released.

As many as 8,000 persons a day visit the park, she said.

They visit the fire tower, have a picnic and enjoy the scenery which includes views of Delaware Water Gap, Wind Gap, Pocono Knob. Even the Catskills can be sighted on a clear day.

Each season has its own beauty, Pocono Pete said, and many people come back each year to enjoy the beauty from the many look-outs on the mountain top.

Pocono Pete says she is happy to welcome them since she has enjoyed association with many people from many of the United States as well as foreign countries, who visit the park.

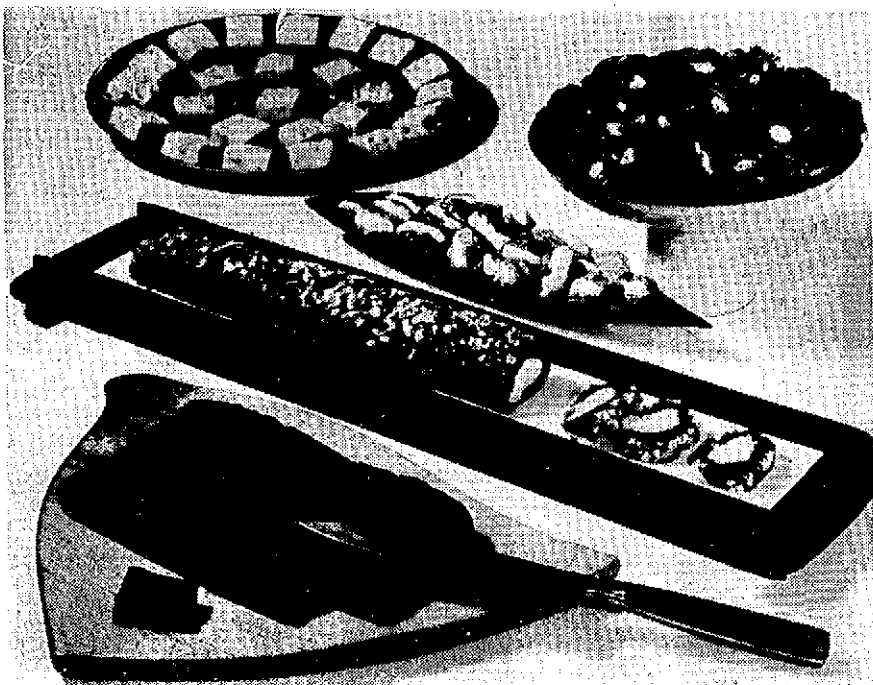

Besides her taxidermy work, Pocono Pete makes ceramics and pictures of natural scenes. She is proud to point out that the area contains on its border the Big Basswood Tree, second largest in the United States, and is on the old Sullivan Trail.

At the business meeting which followed the dinner at the Motel Inn Towne, President Miss Elizabeth B. Martin, vice president, Miss Anna Stem, and Mrs. Millie Everitt were named as delegates to the regional conference.

The conference will be planned in further detail at the business meeting to be held Thursday, Feb. 8, at 7:30 at the Motel Inn Towne.

Sweets to the sweet

Stroudsburg — I'm glad February is a sweet-tooth month for it gives me an opportunity to give a recipe given to me at Christmastime. A reader of this column called about a week before Christmas to give me the following candy recipe; she said it was such a good one she wanted to share the recipe, but unfortunately I didn't have space before the holidays to print it.

With Valentine's Day coming up soon, we're candidly conscious so why not try it? The first candy mixture made with dates and nuts is molded into a loaf and then fudge candy is poured over this. When cold, it is sliced.

Fudge Loaf Candy
Two-thirds cup cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup vanilla
1/2 cup chopped dates
1/2 cup nuts
1/2 cup sugar, cream, salt and butter gently stirring until the soft ball stage in cold water. Set aside for twenty minutes.

then add vanilla and beat until thick and creamy. Add dates and nuts; shape into a loaf 1 1/2 inches thick or into two small bars. Refrigerate until cold. Cover with chocolate fudge candy (recipe below), cut in slices and bars.

Chocolate Fudge
2 cups sugar
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 squares chocolate
Put sugar, chocolate, milk, butter in saucepan and cook until soft ball stage. Cool for twenty minutes, then add vanilla. Beat until creamy and pour over loaf candy on waxed paper. Work fast as it sets quickly.

For those of you who have trouble making fudge, this next recipe is for you. Made with confectioners sugar and instant nonfat dry milk, it does not require cooking until the soft ball stage nor heating. It is poured into a square pan and cut. From the basic chocolate fudge recipe shown in the foreground of the photo, you can make the other candies shown.

Quick Chocolate Fudge

1/2 cup margarine
3 ozs. unsweetened chocolate
1 lb. confectioners sugar
1 cup sugar
One-third cup instant nonfat dry milk (dry form)
1/2 cup light or dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup chopped nuts or 1 cup miniature or cut up marshmallows (optional)

Melt margarine and chocolate in top of 2 quart double boiler or saucepan over boiling water. Meanwhile, sift confectioners sugar and nonfat dry milk together; set aside. Stir light or dark corn syrup, water and vanilla into chocolate mixture over boiling water. Blend in sifted dry ingredients in 2 additions, stirring until mixture is well blended and smooth. Remove from boiling water. Mix in nuts or marshmallows. Then into greased 8x8x2 inch square pan. Cool. Cut into squares. Makes 1 1/2 pounds.

Quick Blond Fudge: Follow recipe for Quick Chocolate Fudge, omitting chocolate and water, using light corn syrup and increasing vanilla to 2 teaspoons.

Quick Peanut Butter Fudge: Follow recipe for Quick Chocolate Fudge omitting chocolate, melting one-third cup creamy or chunk style peanut butter with margarine and using light corn syrup.

Stuffed Fruit: Prepare Quick Chocolate or Blond Fudge. Stuff into dried fruit.

Fudge Roll: Grease 2 (9 inch) square pans. Cover bottom of 1 pan with 2 cups chopped nuts. Prepare 1 recipe Quick Chocolate Fudge and pour into pan with nuts; spread and smooth. Prepare 1 recipe Quick Blond Fudge and pour into other pan. Let stand until set, but still soft. Turn out chocolate fudge into waxed paper, then turnover so nuts are on bottom. Roll blond fudge into tight roll and place on one end of chocolate fudge. (Do not stretch blond fudge). Roll up with chocolate on outside, using waxed paper as aid. Chill until firm. Slice with sharp knife.

Do you like peanut brittle? Here's a recipe using the Spanish peanuts. Be sure to work quickly after you take it off the heat, stretching it as thin as you can before it hardens.

Dixie Peanut Brittle

2 cups sugar
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup white corn syrup
1 1/2 cups raw spanish peanuts
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
Measure sugar, water, and corn syrup into deep, heavy saucepan. Stir to mix. Cook until mixture spins a thread (240 degrees). Add peanuts and continue cooking until they begin to pop (hard crack stage, 301 degrees to 302 degrees). Remove from heat and stir in butter, soda and salt. Pour onto large greased cookie sheet, marble slab, or porcelain top table. Turn it at once and stretch quickly, until very thin. When cold, break into pieces.

James Raymond Clugston, Jr. and Mrs. James P. Clugston of Atlanta, Ga., announce the arrival and prospective adoption of a son on Jan. 25 when he was five weeks old. He has been named James Raymond Clugston, Jr.

Mrs. Clugston is the former Marilyn Welsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Welsh of Stroudsburg. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James B. Clugston, also of Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Stanley John Deskevitch

Deborah H. Rohrer, S.J. Deskevitch wed

East Stroudsburg — A member of the East Stroudsburg police force, Stanley John Deskevitch, took a Southern bride at candlelight ceremonies on Jan. 20 at 3 p.m. at the Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg.

His bride is Deborah Helen Rohrer, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Leon Taylor of Burkeville, R.D. 1, Alabama. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Deskevitch of 521 Hickory St., Old Forge.

Rev. William F. Wunder performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with vases of white carnations, and candles. Mrs. Alberta Yutz was soloist and Mrs. Bonnie Michaels was organist.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Paul Long, the bride wore a dress of white tulle lace over ice blue peau de soie. The gown had long sleeves and a round neckline scalloped in lace. Her short veil of silk illusion was held by a cluster of blue daisies. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and ivy.

Miss Patricia Miller of Stroudsburg, R.D. 4, was maid of honor. She wore a long pink linen sheath, with a hat with clusters of pink daisies and a small illusion veil. She carried a cascade of pink carnations and ivy.

Harold Larson Jr. of Maple Ave., East Stroudsburg, was best man. Ushers were Charles McDonald and Arthur Gilliland. A reception was held at the Elks Club for 100 guests. The club was decorated with wedding bells and flowers and music was provided by Dick Hallstead's Quartet.

Leaving for their wedding trip to Canada and northern New York State, the bride wore a beige suit with brown accessories and a yellow corsage. They are now at home at 1196 West Main St., Stroudsburg.

The bride was graduated from South Cobb High School, Mableton, Ga., in 1963. Mr. Deskevitch was graduated from Old Forge High School in 1961 and from the Pennsylvania Police Academy.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

The groundhog may or may not have gone back in his hole for another six weeks, but there's a springtime stir in activities. It seems people sprout earlier than even the pussy willows. Maybe it's the slowly retreating darkness, maybe everybody's getting rested up from the holiday rush and starting to get cabin fever.

Or maybe the activities were planned last fall when everything seemed possible. Whatever the cause, the increased activity makes doing Family Fare more interesting.

Both the Optimists and the Soroptimists are deep in plans for entertaining district groups in the Poconos. The Optimists, which is a man's service club, is entertaining the zone at a Valentine Dance, to which they obviously will invite their ladies. On the same night the Lions Club will have a local dinner dance.

The Soroptimists, who compose a career woman's service club, have until the end of March before they play hosts to the whole North Atlantic Region which includes several states, at a weekend conference.

I hope the Vacation Bureau realizes how much responsibility rests with these organizations who bring conferences and conventions to the Poconos. In the first place, they have to be a lively and dependable organization to have their invitations accepted. But then the Vacation Bureau has done its share, I guess, by making all the organizations want to come to the Poconos, too.

For which I can't blame them. But in February? Or March? Actually, as Pocono Pete pointed out to the Soroptimists, every season in the Poconos has its own particular charm — if you can get here, and get far enough away from the radiator to enjoy it.

Ann Landers

Free love pitfalls

Dear Ann Landers: I am a high school girl who believes in free love. Please print my letter because there are plenty more like me and our side doesn't get very much coverage.

I am not a tramp. I come from a high class family and I make good grades. I see nothing wrong with sleeping with different boys so long as I like them and they like me — as a person, I mean.

Virginity is an old-fashioned idea that makes no sense any more. Why should a girl save herself for a man who is not making any great effort to save himself for her? In our social group I don't know of a single girl who has done much of a preservation job.

Sex is an important part of marriage and I want to be the perfect wife. I feel that the practice I am getting now will be very useful when Mr. Right comes along. So you see, there ARE some logical and sensible arguments against virginity. And if you are fair, as you claim to be, you will print my letter.

MISS HONEST

Dear Miss: If you are sleeping around so you will be experienced for Mr. Right, you can stop now. Mr. Right will not view your list of bed partners as impressive credentials. In fact, he might get the idea that you are a bit of an alley cat.

I don't deceive myself into believing my advice will cut any mustard with you, Toots, but for the girls who have not yet lost The Great Debate, I'd like to say this: Insofar as sex is concerned, practice does NOT make perfect. It does make juicy conversation in locker rooms and, of course, it can also make babies.

Dear Ann Landers: I read recently that a state school for mentally retarded children in Boston has accepted 300 pairs of old shoes from someone who had been saving them for 36 years. The shoe saver received wide acclaim for his "thriftiness and generosity." The whole thing made me sick to my stomach. Old, misshapen shoes can ruin a person's feet for the rest of his life. Many retarded children cannot speak well enough to let another person know what is bothering them.

I would like to pose a question to the fine citizens of Boston: Is this the best your state can do for its retarded children? PARENT OF A RETARDED CHILD

Dear Parent: Thank you for your letter. If a Bostonian will come up with an answer I will print it.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband died seven months ago. We had a fine marriage and his sudden death was a terrible blow to me.

For the first several months I couldn't even think of going out and enjoying myself. Now I am feeling stronger and I would like to accept some of the invitations my friends have so generously extended. My husband's sister says it would be disrespectful to my husband's memory if I did not honor the mourning period of one year. Do you agree?

WANT TO DO WHAT'S RIGHT

DEAR Want To: No. Life is for the living. If you feel that you would like to socialize now, do so. It's how you treat a man when he's alive that counts.

Do you feel ill at ease... out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

JACK O'BRIAN'S

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Skyrocketing costs of Broadway plays soared higher — the new "I Never Sang For My Father" lavished $200,000 on its single brooding set... David Wolper's film firm made dignified author John Updike a rich man for the first time; $600,000 for film rights to his Random House "Couples" book; until now John had been in the modestly paid esoteric bracket... Mrs. Loe Guinness, of the best-dressed yacht-helicopter set signed with Bennett Cerf for a book... Ditto three other non-authors — composer Richard Rodgers, Nancy Sinatra and her father.

At the Bowry, first nights, TV drama critics Edwin Newman (NBC) and Leonard Harris (CBS) sit right across the aisle from each other; Newman watches the play closely while Harris scribbles endless notes (for his quite brief TV pedantry); at any opportunity Newman catches Harris' eye, then whispers: "Write! Write!"

The Mike Douglas TV special with Pearl Bailey will be just the two of them... Pearl's starring with Mike's syndicated special because "He always wanted me when I didn't have a hit like 'Hello, Dolly!'... U. S. furriers bought almost every one of hundreds of thousands of Russian fables (and lesser furs) auctioned in Stalingrad, in case LBJ wonders where millions in balance-of-payments drop.

Virtually everything in Truman Capote's TV "Laura" fiasco was lambasted except Arlene Francis as the Older Woman; but let's note Elaine Dunne as the maid was the only other touch of professionalism in David Susskind's infliction of Lee Radziwili's drab little pretension. Capote's Cuba is publishing Capote's "In Cold Blood" in a pirated no-royalties edition... Leslie Uggams' Australian-born husband Graham Pratt plans a private mid-Manhattan "club" Ballerina Margot Fonteyn is at all charmed with partner Rudi Nureyev's whim for a film career.

Will Chamberlain dribbled into Lindy's at luncheon with cohorts Sam Jones and Dave Bing and Will gulped down five doubles — of orange juice... "Bonnie & Clyde" is a cinch for a $15 million gross in the U. S. alone; producer — star Warren Beatty's an Instant Millionaire thereby... Beatty, whose scorecard is filled with actress' names, turned up in San Jose — Almeria, Spain, at the set of Brigitte Bardot's "Shalako" film she's making with Sean Connery, whose wife Diane Cilento is standing guard.

BB's husband, Gunther Sachs, only visits weekends (for his quite brief TV pedantry); at any opportunity Newman catches Harris' eye, then whispers: "Write! Write!"

Vaughan Meader (the JFK - imitator whose Kennedy - spoofing career crashed the day JFK was killed) tried a new - image in Chicago (hippie-beards, beads, etc.) and opened and closed the same night... Time-files: Lindbergh's daughter Reeves is a senior at Radcliffe.

Tallulah Bankhead who reluctantly celebrated her 65th birthday told pals, "And I always thought social security was a deodorant..." Belgian Symphony Orchestra didn't curtail its U. S. tour in reaction to LBJ's projected travel ban here; its gov't simply withdrew a travel subsidy — which might be anti - LBJ at that.

The Copa is keeping with the Joneses: Jack Jones stars now followed by Tom Jones Feb. 15... The great showbiz gentleman John W. Bubbles probably won't work again: had three relapses since his stroke.

Opening lead — king of clubs. The freedom to lead at will from either hand is a privilege not always available to declarer, and solving this problem of entries to one hand or the other is often the critical factor in the outcome of a contract.

There is a typical situation. South is in four hearts and the defense starts with the king and another club which declarer ruffs.

South would like to take two spade finesses as well as lead a diamond toward his king, but he has only two entries to dummy for these three operations.

The proper way to solve this problem is to lead a heart to dummy at trick three and return the two of spades, finessing the jack after East follows low.

West wins with the queen and can do no better than return a club, which declarer ruffs. South reenters dummy with a trump and now leads the ten of spades on which he plays the fire after East has followed low.

This is South's second lead from dummy. When the finesse succeeds, he discontinues spades and leads a diamond toward his king. Since East has the ace, South succeeds in his mission; the only tricks he loses are a spade, a diamond and a club.

Note that if East goes up with the king on the second round of spades, South wins in his hand with the ace and returns to dummy with a low spade to make the decisive diamond play toward the king.

Note also that if declarer starts the spades by leading the ten from dummy and playing low from his hand, he eventually finds that the next time he gets to dummy he can return either a spade or a diamond but cannot do both, and he therefore winds up going down one.

Your Horoscope

By Francis Drake

Saturday, February 3, 1968

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Good influences. A new twist, a new approach to a longstanding project could break through interest, relieve the monotony of details. Whirlwinds indicated for good efforts.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Don't interrupt duties for extra-curricular duties, no matter how "pleasing" the latter could be. Remember obligations past and present. Translate good thoughts to knowing action.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Hold back that quick robot, that impulsive, ill-considered facts. Make time and waste count realistically. A monstrous task is possible; play it well.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Built-in and built-up tensions can be eliminated. How you react and your readiness to overcome the hindrances and ways to overcome them will count heavily now.

July 23 to August 22 (Leo) — This day's success is in YOUR hands. Don't wait for leads; seek hidden advantages. They're yours for the taking. Seriously, confidently, do it.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Studying others' difficulties is a good thing. It will help you see their mistakes more clearly. Your role now is that of inspiring companion. Some changes evolving; will please later.

September 23 to October 22 (Libra) — Your ability to call up reserve energy and your know-how in solving problems or tricky situations will come in handy now. An alert eye and ear can help you to prevent difficulties.

October 23 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Your work will look more meritorious and you'll be certain that it's a means to an end. Handle small tasks as efficiently and unflinchingly as the larger ones.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — You should be able to handle and interpret situations with ease. If you need more information before acting, consult an expert in the field. Now opportunities lie in the air.

December 23 to January 22 (Capricorn) — Forget old hurts, disappointments, and pick up to make THIS day count. This is the biggest success possible. Plenty of credits for earned endeavors.

January 23 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Embark upon a new project that really offers purpose, stimulates your mind. A complex situation could contain the seed of an excellent harvest.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Write your year. You should be rewarded, but the type of reward depends upon how you write it. More than a couple of factors may be involved. Capitalize on your money and talents and you will have a good impression.

YOUR BIRTH TODAY: One of your strongest characteristics is to carry out the things you have planned in the face of heavy problems. Your inner strength seems to gain more momentum under hardship. This is a good omen. Sign, an outgoing one. Yet you plan, observe and reflect. And decisions in complete solitude.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 5 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 5, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 2-3

Cardiac Referral Service sponsored by heart drive

STROUDSBURG — The Cardiac Referral Service, sponsored by the Eastern Pennsylvania Heart Assn., is just one of the various Community Service Programs made available by the Monroe County Heart office for local needs.

Mrs. Dorothy M. Oliver,

Reviewing plans for the 1968 Heart Fund Drive that will continue through February are Dr. Richard Luce, drive chairman and Dorothy M. Oliver, executive director of the Monroe County Heart Assn. Volunteers will canvass the county until Feb. 29. (Staff Photo by MacLeod) executive director, explained that this program is applicable to children until 18 years of age, and is not to be confused with the state rehabilitation program for adults.

When a child appears to be suffering from a cardiac condition, he may be referred to the Heart Assn. office by the family or the attending physician.

If the referral is made by the family, the Heart Assn. office contacts the family physician for his approval and recommendation that the child be evaluated at either of the two State Children's Cardiac Clinics — Scranton State Hospital or Wilkes-Barre General Hospital.

Upon receiving the physician's recommendation, the family is referred to the County Health Center, State Department of Health. An appointment is next set up by the County Health Center at one of the two mentioned clinics.

After the appointment, the state public health nurse in the area visits the family to acquaint everyone with the clinical procedure and obtain pertinent data concerning the child.

Upon examination at one of the cardiac clinics, copies of the report on diagnosis and findings are sent to the physician, the county health center and the Children's Cardiac Section in Harrisburg.

Should further evaluation and treatment be recommended by the clinician, appointment will be made at either Children's or St. Christopher's Hospital in Philadelphia or Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh, by Dr. Jack Sabloff, Chief of Children's Cardiac Section, Department of Health, Harrisburg, Pa.

Financial status. When hospitalization or surgery is found necessary, a resume of the financial status of the family is made by the chief of children's cardiac, who will determine what part, if any, the family will be expected to contribute to the cost of hospitalization. No child is ever refused treatment because of family's inability to contribute.

The Heart Assn. will finance transportation, food, and lodging for a limited time when necessary, for one parent to accompany child to hospital.

The executive director of the Heart Assn. visits the child after surgery and supplies the parents with proper educational material.

Stroudsburg suit filed

STROUDSBURG — Mae E. Strunk, Stroudsburg, has filed suit in Monroe County Court seeking in excess of $10,000 from a New Jersey couple for injuries allegedly suffered as the result of an automobile accident July 23.

According to the complaint filed Friday, Plaintiff is seeking the award for an accident that occurred last summer at the intersection of McConnell and N. 4th Streets, Stroudsburg.

Plaintiff maintains that she was a passenger in a car owned and driven by Beverly J. Rode, traveling west on McConnell approaching the intersection when she was struck by a car driven by Silvio M. Fatato, Emmerson, N.J., traveling north on N. 4th St.

The complaint charges the defendant was going through the stop sign and ignoring a flashing red blinker at the intersection.

Mrs. Strunk also claims she was thrown about the inside of the car resulting in several injuries including bruises and contusions of the scalp. She also claims a permanent scar on her right hand and numbness in the hand.

Edwin Krawitz filed the papers Friday.

Rain, fog, clouds combine to insure early springtime

STROUDSBURG — S'Rawd of Grunsow Lodge Number 22aeu of the Stroudsburgs, was supposedly on the job Friday morning as the groundhog came out of hibernation long enough to predict the remaining length of the present winter.

However, our good natured and honored followers of the groundhog felt that the early hour, cloudy skies and area rain was too much of an obstacle.

Anyway the rodent couldn't see his shadow, unless there was a reflection from the many puddles of water, and from all indications we face the favorable thought that winter is nearing an early end.

Had it been a clear day Friday, six more weeks of winter could have been the ruling of the groundhog, who in recent years has been an opponent of inclement weather, as have his followers.

Members of the lodge had good intentions for Friday, as they met at the Beaver House Thursday night to plan their annual pilgrimage into the wooded areas of the Poconos to search for the elusive denizen which has the innate ability to prognosticate the early or late arrival of spring.

The groundhog often interrupts his winter sleep or hibernation in his anxiety to take a peek outside his snug underground burrow to view the frozen world.

The groundhog prediction of an early spring substantiates other favorable signs, such as the blooming crocuses, tulip sprouts pushing through the snow and robins already on hand.

At first glance it may appear that Dr. Floyd W. Shafer, habtmon, or president of Grunsow Lodge Nummer 22aeu; Joseph E. Altomose and Rev. William F. Wunder, schriver or secretary, left to right, have a speaking acquaintance with the ground hog during an early morning visit Friday. Actually, the picture was posed and the groundhog was stuffed many years ago. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Sportsmen to oppose Clark on grounds of legislation

TOBYHANNA — The new federal gun legislation under consideration has inspired the State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs to ask its member clubs to oppose the re-nomination of Pennsylvania's state Sen. Joseph S. Clark, a co-sponsor of the Dadd Legislation.

The Dadd bill outlines a strict program of "legislation for possession of guns. The Federation of Sportsmen feels it is over-restrictive for the legitimate sportsmen, Price explained.

During a meeting of the Monroe County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, matters pertaining to the new gun legislation and the request of the State Federation were discussed, reported James Price, secretary.

At a director's meeting attended by Price, an announcement was made by Glen L. Bowers, executive director of Pennsylvania Game Commission, that a recruitment program has started for students for new classes of game and fish wardens. Price said that one of the requirements is that the applicant must be a veteran.

Warden applications Fish warden applications can be obtained by contacting Walter J. Burkart, Stroudsburg, RD 5, county fish warden.

The new shooting schedule set from sunrise to sunset as opposed to the past schedule from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. reflected no shooting accidents and less violations, reported Price.

There has been some controversy in some counties on antlerless licensing, where steps were necessary to prosecute several county treasurers, said Price. This also remained under discussion.

Legislation is being sought to protect the bobcat, by setting a definite season and also to prohibit the construction of tree stands on property without the consent of the owner.

The Wally Taber Show, a personally narrated program of hunting and fishing on an African Safari and in the western United States will be featured on Monday, Feb. 26.

Further details will be publicized, announced Price.

In support of National Wild Life Week, an essay contest will be sponsored by the club in the elementary schools, on the subject "Learn To Live With Nature."

Suggestions were considered by the club for a fishing contest to be sponsored for handicapped children in Monroe County.

Price also announced that ice fishing is open in Deep Lake, Big Pocono. Trout fishing through the ice is open until Thursday, Feb. 15.

Several sections of wired areas are being maintained in this area, set aside for in-season stock of trout. Help for maintenance of these areas will be solicited Saturday, Feb. 17, at 9:30 a.m. at the Post Office in Tannersville. There are eight sections in Pocono Creek and six in Tobyhanna, said Price.

Mature turkeys, numbering 80, were released in Monroe County, mostly hens, to propagate this summer, announced Price.

Deer reported killed by hunters during the 1967 season numbered 136,000. This is next to the highest figure ever recorded in the county, compared with 175,000 in 1937 when there was open season on everything, reported Price. This figure includes 76,000 bucks, 60,000 antlerless and 3,100 deer killed by bow. "Bow hunting is an increasing sport," Price stated.

A featured event following the meeting held Thursday night at the Game Commission Building, Gamelands No. 127, Tobyhanna, was a fox trapping demonstration by John Spencer, district game protector.

The next meeting is scheduled for March 7, with a fly-tying demonstration by John DeVivo.

Hotel chain conducting motel survey in county

STROUDSBURG — Sheraton Hotels, Inc. may construct a 220-unit motel in the Stroudsburg area, informed sources revealed Friday.

Sources stated that officials from the international hotel-motel chain have already surveyed property and made soil tests in the W. Main St. area near Interstate Exit 48.

There has also been reports that a location in the Tannersville area is being considered.

A Sheraton Hotel spokesman in Boston verified Friday that the firm is studying the possibility of constructing a motel facility in the Stroudsburg area.

The spokesman said that an independent firm is currently conducting a survey of the Stroudsburg - Delaware Water Gap area.

If the survey indicates a favorable market, a Sheraton facility may be constructed, the spokesman said. The survey is expected to be complete in a few weeks.

The spokesman said, however, that a final decision will be based on the survey results.

Informed sources stated that the proposed facility would be one of the largest motels in the Poconos.

The sources revealed that the motel will have an indoor and outdoor swimming pool and a sauna bath. Construction of the facility is estimated at more than one million dollars.

Police probe beer party on Main St.

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Borough Police are investigating a disturbance at a beer party in an apartment on lower Main St. last Friday night.

No arrests have been made. However, police are checking several known persons who attended the party. Police did not reveal the names.

According to police, they were summoned to the apartment by neighbors who had complained of the noise. Police arrived at the scene and began to take license plate numbers of cars parked in the area.

Those attending the "party" began to evacuate the apartment and knocked Patrolman Russell Hetrick down the stairs as he was coming from the apartment.

While on the ground several of the youths attending the party punched and kicked Hetrick.

Study set for budget at 'Manor'

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners will meet Tuesday at 9 a.m. to discuss a proposed $391,403 operating budget for Pleasant Valley Manor, the county's home for the aged.

The budget, an increase of $63,173 from a $327,330 budgeted amount in 1967, also represents an increase of nearly $85,000 from the amount actually spent in 1967 listed at $294,867.

According to Lawrence Butz, Pleasant Valley Administrator, salaries are of vital importance and account for the increase over last year's budget amount.

Heavy turnover He stressed the need for a "salary policy" at the manor to prevent the record turnover that has occurred in the past among home employees.

Butz reported to the commissioners Monday that he had a "full compliment" of 59. But Friday night he said during the week he has already lost another pair and is down to 57.

"Most of the people out here are from Stroudsburg," he said, and mentioned that it costs about 12 cents a mile to operate a car according to recent statistics.

At present manor employees receive $1.50 an hour above the minimum for nursing home employees set at $1.15 per hour. The wage, however, falls below the $1.60 per hour minimum wage for industry.

Need for help Butz said he has planned the new budget so "we can get enough help if we need it," and said the county could adopt a salary policy that would include an "incentive" to employees with a training period and guaranteed increments after certain periods of time if merited.

A breakdown of the largest items included in the proposed budget, $179,182 listed for salaries under nursing care shows the following:

Medical director, $4,800; director of nursing, $5,850; registered nurses, $13,845; licensed practical nurses, $24,688; nurses aides, $33,107; attendants, $35,797; relief registered nurses, $6,800; relief licensed practical nurses, $9,952; relief per diem aides, $3,000; relief per diem attendants, $7,138; physical therapist, $5,200; pharmacist, $1,083; activity director, $8,645; and outside doctor's fees, $200.

A $182,273 proposed figure under the heading of "Operations and Maintenance" was broken down in this manner: Salaries of house-keeping staff, including, house-keeping, maids, chef, cooks, helpers, dietician, laundry, porters, etc., $91,813.

$48,245 was listed under other services in the Operations category slated for fuel, light, water, repairs, extermination and the emergency generator and other services.

Under this heading is a $12,600 figure quoted as the needed amount to repair two dirt-floored basement areas with a water seepage problem.

Under materials and supplies in the Operation and Maintenance category, a $32,615 figure is listed for needed supplies including food, soaps, cleaning items, lumber, hardware and numerous items essential for daily operation at the Manor.

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Borough Police investigated a two-car accident Friday at 11:48 a.m. in front of 433 Main St. They reported no injuries and estimated total damage at $50.

The drivers were George J. Stettler, Stemple St., East Stroudsburg, and Andrew Wilcha, Mount Pocono.

All of services, many wars covered in crowded drawer

By RICK METHOT
Pocono Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — Shortly after the end of World War II millions of war-weary Americans eagerly awaited their separation papers and the chance to rejoin families and loved ones "back home."

In Monroe County the returning veterans made it a point to file the long-awaited separation papers in the courthouse as a testimony to the period from 1941 to 1945 and to have a permanent record and proof of military service. According to Carl Yost, Monroe County Register and Recorder, the practice of recording discharge papers has faded to an almost negligible number even though the first wave of Vietnam veterans has returned to civilian life.

"I would advise all former servicemen including reservists released from active duty to file these papers," Yost said. "The service is done at no cost to the veteran."

Yost said that in case the original discharge papers are lost the copy on file will give proof of service.

"Occasionally inquiries are made for a veteran's papers," he added, "but it is more for the serviceman's protection than employment to have them on record."

Yost explained that filing the papers was stressed during the service to outgoing GIs following the war and said that in Jan. of 1948 278 such separation papers were filed by returning servicemen in Monroe County as compared with only 14 filed for this January.

Comparing the entire year, 1,832 papers were filed in 1946 in comparison with only 97 for the year 1967.

He said that original papers left in the courthouse number well over 500 ranging from a private to a Lt. Col. and from the pre-world War I days to present.

Yost explained that the original discharge paper could be picked up about two weeks after it is turned into the Register and Recorder's office for filing.

Yost displayed a packed drawer stuffed with the yellowed originals giving testimony to "skirmishes" and battles from Belleau Wood to Guadalcanal and Japanese occupation duty.

The early Army originals included reference to a soldier's horsemanship ability and was neatly handwritten in the appropriate space, "Yes" or "No."

Even the early United States Marine Corps separation papers gave the familiar marksmanship qualification M for marksman, S for sharpshooter, and E for the coveted expert that would mean extra pay in the "Old Corps."

A pair of 1914 tattered U. S. Navy separation papers pictured a proud warship of the time on the top center of the document while several were bound on cracked leather bindings.

Health Department may close area diner

BARTONSVILLE — The Laurel Diner on Route 611 in Bartonsville, owned by Grover Hay since 1961, will have to close February 8.

The State Health Department this week ordered Hay to close the establishment by Friday.

State Health Department officials in Stroudsburg said that the order to close was issued because the diner does not meet minimum Health Department standards.

Specific details were not given by officials.

Walter Fox, district health officer, said that specific details of State Health Department inspections in private establishments cannot be disclosed.

Fox indicated, however, that there are apparently numerous violations of standards in the diner.

Hay, who purchased the diner from Cora and Walter Sebring in 1961, said that he had been "bothered" by Health Department officials since 1961.

Fox and Merrill Reddinger, conducted another inspection of the diner Thursday.

Hay said the two officials told him to clean up the rest rooms, which he reportedly said he would clean within one week.

Health Department officials indicated that they did order Hay to repair the floor of the diner.

Floor repair Hay said he told Fox and Reddinger Thursday that he intended to repair the floor this week. He said he has already purchased tile for a new floor covering and that the tile was at the premises.

He reportedly told the two officials that he wouldn't repair the floor until the weather improves.

Hay said that Fox told him the walk-in at the diner meets specifications and that "I suggest that you tear the whole diner down and build around the walk-in."

Reddinger said that in order for Hay to meet the Health Department Standards, he would have to spend "a lot of money." He indicated that Hay was willing to do this.

Hay said that he is not so much criticizing the inspection conducted by the two men as he is with what he termed an "unfair practice."

"The Health Department should inspect other facilities as they have mine," Hay said.

ESSC needs maximum effort tonight

By TED WISMER
Record Sports Editor
EAST STROUDSBURG —
"We have to get a maximum effort from everyone if we're going to beat Lock Haven."
That was Red Witman's opening remark Friday as he called the squad together for its final workout before tonight's battle of two of the outstanding mat teams in the East.
Both teams are coming off easy wins earlier this week. The Warriors defeated Shippensburg (31-16) while Lock Haven blanked Ithaca (33-0). The Bald Eagles topped Shippensburg, 33-6. Against Oswego, ESSC won by 10 points, Lock Haven, one.
The key to the match will be the ability of the ESSC grapplers to stay off their backs against the "tougher" Eagles.

Last year only one Warrior was pinned while this season three have been pinned thus far.
Witman is almost sure that Bill Melchior and Shane Foley will be at 115 and 123 respectively for the first time this season. "Both of them have had to suek down some and it could be they might not be as strong," Witman said.
Witman said, "Lock Haven really wants this match and the boy that wrestles for the entire eight minutes in each bout will win. You boys have got to go hard all the time. If you feel you're getting tired, take two or three deep breaths and get right back in there."
Key bout
While all the bouts will be big the "key bout" of the night will be at 137 where Witman will send out Junior Tom Best, who can make his first real contribution to the team.

Witman said "without a win here, I don't see how we'll stay in the match. We almost have to sweep 130, 137, 145 and 152 and then pick up two wins in the upper weights."
Pointing to Gerry McDonald (145), Witman said, "He's got to be shooting for a pin all the time." McDonald, at 7-0, is one of four Warriors unbeaten in dual meet competition.
Another unbeaten is sophomore Dan Rossi, who next to Cook, has the largest cheering section among the ESSC students. Rossi (7-0-1) according to Witman is capable of beating whoever Greg Simons throws in there. Lock Haven possibilities in this weight are Bob Ambrose or Jack Klingaman.

The 160 and 167-pound entries for both sides won't be known until it's time for the contestants to step on the mat.
Witman plans to have Bill Elder (who was not in the best physical condition Friday night) and Bob DeVore, another of the good looking sophomores who has been good and bad, weigh in at 160. Jack Childs will weigh in at 167 although Elder and DeVore are also possibilities at this weight.
Two Warriors, Gary Cook and Al Detweiler, will weigh in at 177 and here again who will wrestle where depends on the bout score and who the Eagles elect to send out. Cook is 8-0 for the season, although he's competed at 177, 191 and heavyweight. Detweiler scored a fall in his only appearance since becoming eligible.

ESSC's heavyweight will be sophomore Rich Schumacher, unbeaten in seven bouts. The 240-pounder has been taken down only once this season.
Prior to the varsity bout, which starts at 8, the freshman and junior varsity squads of the two schools will tangle at 6:30. Two mats will be in use at the same time.
Unbeaten ESSC frosh are Ted Pease (7-0), 123; Tom Huber, Hellertown, (7-0), 145, and Joe Stricchiola (5-0), 152.
The Warriors will leave at 10 a.m. and Witman plans to put in a 30 minute workout on the mats to get rid of "the bus legs."

Fight to survive

The kind of neighborhood that Frankie Crawford was raised in in Cleveland, if you didn't have a broken nose by the time you were 13, you were a girl.

The busiest streetcar running in town was the one to the penitentiary. Only on Sunday afternoons did it make round-trips. They had three classes of fares—adults, children and prisoners.

Frankie was a high school dropout. Most of the kids were majoring in the electric chair anyhow. The trade school was in the streets. "How to Steal Bumpers" was not an elective. Everybody got an "A" in Car Stripping. Why take Body Shop or Mechanical Drawing when you could take a car?

Some kids shot craps for money. Others shot storekeepers. The way Frankie tells it, there wasn't an item around 79th and St. Clair for weeks that still had its original serial number on it.

When you are 5 feet, 7 inches and 118 pounds, and an indifferent student with divorced parents, you escape from this environment in one of two ways—with your fists or with a gun.

Frankie never needed anything more than his two fists and a little room for footwork to solve his problems, so, unbeknownst to his aunt, he began hanging around a gym known as "The Big 10." Among the customers was the old heavyweight trial horse, Jimmy Bivins. Bivins had lost to the best of them. He also had chased some of the best of them right out of the ring.

Ducking not illegal

Bivins took a liking to this little Irish leprechaun, probably because he had to take so much care not to step on him, but he couldn't understand why a guy with the arsenal of a canoe should come on like a battleship. Frankie fought every fight as if it were taking place on the edge of a cliff or the ledge of a skyscraper. "It's legal to duck a punch," Bivins, who had traded wins with Ezzard Charles and traded knockouts with Archie Moore in his days, told Frankie. School yard fights at Our Lady of Lourdes had been the pugilistic equivalent of saturation bombing—and sometimes just as ineffective—but, with Bivins' coaching, Frankie was soon slick enough to win the novice bantamweight title in the Golden Gloves.

He came West to California with the meager earnings of a hocked gold watch, and hitchhiked his way to Jake Shugrue's gym, where Jake gave him a clean T-shirt, a broom, a pail, and a room in the garage out back. He got a job making monsters masks at a novelty factory and, for a while, it looked as if he was going to make one for himself in the ring. The bell had scarcely rung for his first four-round fight at the Olympic when he found himself on the floor.

But it was to be the only time in his career he was decked. In his heart, Frankie has never lost a fight. In his records, he's lost five. But they include the bout in Ecuador where heat and mosquitoes had put him in the ring when he should have been in an oxygen tent. Ten pounds underweight, he still had the local hero, Miguel Herrera, thinking of issuing a missing persons report for him. The only thing the other guy hit all night was the floor, and the only time his glove touched Frankie's was at the handshake. But he got the decision.

In Hawaii, Frankie took no chances. He knocked out the local boy there, figuring not even a home town ref could raise the hand of a fighter on a stretcher.

Frankie Crawford still has a stock clerk's job as a saver. But he took a fight against Mando Ramos for a $7,000 guarantee last fall and gave away seven pounds. Jackie McCoy had gambled on 55 per cent of the take, guaranteeing Frankie seven grand out of that. The fight drew $55,000.

Frankie gets 25 per cent of the rematch at the Olympic tonight. If he wins again, and ever goes back to 79th and St. Clair, he'll be the one in the fur collar, brandishing a gold cane, and shouting, "Tuffians!" at the urchins crowded around his silver hub caps.

British must use U.S. ball

LONDON (AP) — Britain's pro golfers must use the larger United States ball for the next three years, it was ordered Tuesday.

The change from the British ball, which has a diameter of 1.62 inches, to the larger U.S. ball, with a diameter of 1.68 inches, was made following an ineffectual attempt to force the change into the recent Ryder Cup matches against U.S. forces at Houston in October.

The U.S. team won 23½-8½. The British ball was used there, but Geoffrey Cotton, chairman of the British PGA, said, "There are many reasons for the U.S. supremacy in world golf, but the size of the ball is fundamental."

The smaller ball is reputed to be best in England, where wind conditions, often are perverse. The larger U.S. ball sits up better on the lush fairways common in America and also can be controlled better on pitch shots to the green.

Box car double

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — It was box car double at Hialeah Race Track Friday—$1,117.40 for $2 for anyone who paired Pyroblast ($43.80) in the first race with World of Trouble ($22.80) in the second.

Pyroblast, who used a four-tron, had to settle for just the ace because there is no longer a $50,000 reward for the feat in the classic.

Life has been "rosy" for Stroudsburg wrestler and Pocono Record carrier Terry Rush, who has been laid up in the General Hospital of Monroe County with a leg injury suffered on the mats early in the season. Veteran Record carrier doesn't like new role

By RICK METHOT
Pocono Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — What happens when a wrestler finds himself flat on his back?

If he's counting ceiling lights he can always hope for an escape, reversal and just sweat and squirm to keep from being pinned or as in the case of Terry Rush, Stroudsburg grappler, he can lie back, relax, flip the portable TV by remote control and wait for mealtime.

Bush, a 182 lb. matman for the Mountaineers was admitted Monday to the General Hospital of Monroe County for a knee injury suffered during a practice session before the Emmaus match.

The husky athlete hopes to be released today after spending most of the week in a fourth floor semi-private room undergoing treatment for calcium deposits on the knee and leg.

Bush who says he "can't wait" to be released, admits with a grin that life hasn't been "too bad" in the comfortable hospital surroundings.

The brown-haired senior has been a wrestler at Stroudsburg since eighth grade and has lettered in the sport.

According to Bush, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bush, 748 Phillips St., Stroudsburg, the injury could be a carryover from football as the Mountie played at center and defensive tackle on last year's squad.

Bush has also lettered in the sport and has played for a number of years on the Mountaineer eleven.

The bed-ridden athlete had a 4-1 record on the mats before the injury that will sideline him for the remainder of the season but, according to Bush, he will be out in the Spring for the shot put on the track squad.

Rush had kind words for Stroudsburg mat coach, Chet Dalgiewicz, a former ESSC standout in his first year at the helm for the Mounties and sporting an 8-3 record and a tri-championship in Lehigh Valley League action.

"Chet's a real good coach," Bush said, "He really knows his business when it comes to wrestling."

Bush said he's been swamped with cards and visits from well-wishers during his short stint in the hospital with close to forty cards and 30 visitors in less than a week.

The young athlete is also a Pocono Record carrier and has the distinction of being one of the oldest boys with a route, peddling his hometown paper for six years in the 4th, 5th, 6th, and Sarah Street area.

"The money's nice and I like the thought of being able to earn money on my own, and it doesn't bother me to get up in the mornings," he added and mentioned he would probably join the Air Force after graduation this June.

Bush said he eventually plans to make a career of law enforcement in the Pennsylvania State Police upon completion of his tour of duty in the service.

Early plans for the popular Mountie are back to the routine of a classroom at Stroudsburg High School early Monday morning.

Quick change in coaches

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — A quick change in the Kansas football coaching staff took place Thursday with the announcement that Jack Green has accepted a position at Baylor and is being replaced by former UCLA tackle Terry Donahue.

Green, former head coach at Vanderbilt and captain of Army's national championship team of 1945, leaves Monday for Waco, Tex., to become defensive assistant.

The Rangers fought the Indians without mercy, making raids on villages and shooting at anything that moved. They killed warriors, women and children, helping to drive the tribes from the state.

In the case of the Mexican bandits, who plagued Texas until about 1919, historians record numerous incidents of summary executions of bandits caught on the Texas side of the Rio Grande.

But, as the historians note, the Rangers used only the tactics which were used against them and against the ranchers and settlers. It was an era of sudden death.

Texas Rangers fight new foes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Ranger, a Western-style state policeman with a 144-year-old reputation for toughness, was ambushed last summer by criticism and may face more of the same kind of trouble this spring.

The Rangers were hit by serious criticism from many sides—from civil rights groups, the AFL-CIO, U.S. senators, state legislators and church organizations—after they made dozens of arrests in a farm labor dispute in the Rio Grande Valley.

Nothing new Criticism is nothing new for the Texas Rangers. In the 144 years they have been the state police in Texas, their number has escalated and declined with the rise and fall of criticism.

Stephen F. Austin, the principal Anglo colonizer of Texas, named the first Texas Rangers in 1822. He selected 10 men to defend the Texas frontier. Fourteen years later, the Rangers, so-called because they "ranged" widely, were formally organized into a semimilitary group.

In the years that followed, the Texas Rangers battled Indians, Mexican bandits and outlaws all over Texas. They joined U.S. expeditions into Mexico on several occasions and became known there as "the Devil Texans."

The Rangers fought the Indians without mercy, making raids on villages and shooting at anything that moved. They killed warriors, women and children, helping to drive the tribes from the state.

In the case of the Mexican bandits, who plagued Texas until about 1919, historians record numerous incidents of summary executions of bandits caught on the Texas side of the Rio Grande.

But, as the historians note, the Rangers used only the tactics which were used against them and against the ranchers and settlers. It was an era of sudden death.

Outlaw bands, range wars and feuds were broken up by Ranger skill, courage and daring.

The most recent reorganization of the Rangers came in 1936 when they were combined with the Texas Highway Patrol, previously a part of the State Highway Department, to create the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Today, there are 62 men wearing the circled silver star of the Texas Ranger.

The modern day Ranger lives in the shadow of legend which has caused the Rangers to be "glorified," as one former legislator put it.

But, State Sen. Joe Bernal of San Antonio says he plans to investigate the Rangers and will offer a bill in the next legislative session to have them abolished.

"I personally feel they've gone out of style since the turn of the century," he said. "There's just no place for them, especially with the tactics they use."

According to their detractors, these Ranger tactics included beating of demonstrators, intimidation and false arrests during the farm labor dispute of last spring.

Ranger Capt. A.Y. Alce said he thought there was no chance that the Rangers would ever be abolished. Most sheriffs and other law enforcement officers agree.

Cy Barrett Says

Dreaming without LSD

DEAR CY: Every year about this time, I dream of getting into business for myself (and I'm not on LSD). What's ahead for franchising, Cy?

DREAMER

DEAR DREAMER: Let's hear from the experts about franchising's future. First, George Kogel. He is up to his hips in franchising, being manufacturer of sea mells flooring. Within 24 months, the enterprising Mr. Kogel built a national network of 250 franchisees for his merchandise. He holds two degrees from Columbia Graduate School of Business and, during World War II, was chief economist for the building materials division of OPA. Kogel gazes into the far crystal ball and predicts franchising will take a dip in 1968 "or at least level off."

He bases his prediction on increased taxes, higher prices for land, building construction and labor. Kogel also cites, "Tight money—continued high interest rates, with a good chance of becoming higher." Glass sphere—gazing from another direction is Rogers Sherwood, publisher of National Franchise Reports, great oracle of the franchising industry. Sherwood claims, "Every year franchising is supposed to flatten out, but the number of franchises and franchise volume keeps growing."

Why, our 1968 Franchise Annual lists 780 companies which is 35 more than we listed in 1967. "With a mile-wide smile, 'Franchising is still the best way for Mr. and Mrs. America to own their own small business. The choice of franchises is tremendous and this whole thing is no longer a hot dog and hamburger deal.' The franchise industry is actually estimated at 70 billion dollars' worth of volume today, so maybe Kogel and Sherwood are looking at each other in the fortune teller's ball. Just between them, they both know that if franchising was pants, they'd be happily embarrassed for busting out at the seams. CY

DEAR CY: One of the girls at the plant where I work had her fiancée come around to get acquainted. He said, "My name is Tricky and I also answer to sneezes." Do you think that is funny?

MRS. D. Z.

DEAR MRS. D. Z.: Maybe funny, but not necessarily new. There's a vaudeville gag about a business man who, at his wife's insistence, took a course in music appreciation and kept interrupting the teacher. Every time the instructor mentioned Tchaikowsky, the businessman said, "Gesundheit."

CY

DEAR CY: My husband is in the Navy and, after five years, has just been promoted to lieutenant. I think the promotions are too slow and this makes me angry. Should I give the Navy department a piece of my mind?

MRS. NAVY

DEAR MRS. NAVY: No, you already have one lieutenant commander in the family. The Navy department would never say so, but a lieutenant commander is a lieutenant's wife.

CY

DEAR CY: I am single and making good money, but it is difficult to keep from marrying a woman I love. Do you think staying single has great long range financial benefits? I do.

BATCH

DEAR BATCH: The balance sheet on staying single can be based on whether you intended to be an heiress, a 5 to 6 worker, or bridge clubber. Either way you can't help yourself. The eligible fellow who thinks he can stall until some girl asks him is probably in Alaska or Vietnam. CY

Lehigh Valley board

ALLENTOWN — Alpheus L. Ruth of Fleetwood, RD 2, Berks County, has been elected president of the Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers, succeeding Raymond L. Hindenach of Easton, RD 2. It was announced by Calob K. Hobbie, executive vice president and general manager, following the reorganization meeting of the cooperative's board of directors. Hindenach's term as a director has expired.

Ralph C. Richard of Oley, RD 1, was elected vice president. Fred D. Achenbach of Pen Argil, RD 1, was elected treasurer. He was elected as secretary was Charles Hoffman of Neffs. Paul Fissel of Gettysburg, RD 6, was elected assistant secretary.

New members of the board of directors are David E. Roth of Loysville, and Stanley S. Fox of Palm, RD 4. A director to succeed the late G. A. Hoger will be chosen Monday, Feb. 12. Hoger, who died suddenly on Jan. 29, served the cooperative as its first president and general manager from 1934 to 1967 and was a board member until his death.

The new president has been a member of the board since January, 1960. He became treasurer in January, 1967, and vice president in June of last year. He farms 164 acres in Berks County, where he has 110 head of pure-bred Holsteins.

Ruth is a director of the Berks County Holstein Club, a member of the Pennsylvania Farmers Assn., the Pennsylvania and National Holstein Assn., and a member of the Oley Mennonite Church.

House of the week

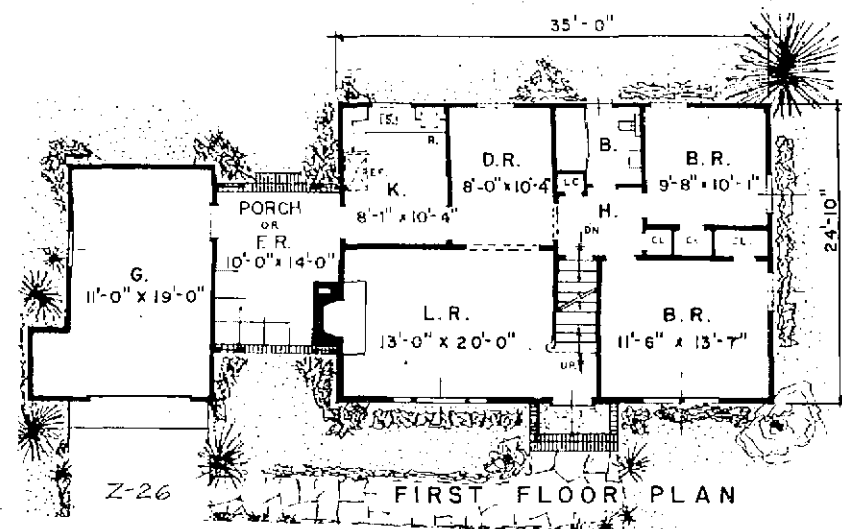

Cape Cod shows colonial lines

EXPANSION COLONIAL—Modest Cape Cod can be a two-bedroom house for a couple or small family, but can be expanded by utilizing upstairs for two extra bedrooms and a bath. Breezeway connecting house to garage can be made into an enclosed porch or a family room.

VIEW FROM FOYER—Brick-faced fireplace at one end of the living room is immediately visible from the entrance foyer and is in keeping with the home's Colonial motif.

FLOOR PLANS—Construction costs are kept to a minimum when rectangular design is utilized throughout. Note, too, that if the second floor is finished as shown, the second bath is directly over the first, an economical plumbing procedure.

By ANDY LANG
Early American houses generally were well proportioned and carefully detailed, relying on their simple styling and balanced exteriors for a restful appearance in harmony with the landscape.

This latest House of the Week design by architect William G. Chirigotis, featuring a picturesque New England Cape Cod with beveled red cedar siding, gabled dormers and shuttered windows, can be an attractive addition to any community in any part of the country.

The plan for this expansion Colonial has a living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath on the first floor. Even with an optional attached porch and a garage, the over-all dimensions are only 60 feet by 24 feet, 10 inches.

If and when the upstairs area is finished according to the architect's plans, there will be two extra bedrooms with a large bath and generous storage space.

All this is within a first-floor living area of 870 square feet and a second-floor layout of 473 square feet — or a total of 1,343 square feet.

Utilizing only the first floor, this is a comfortable two-bedroom house for older persons who no longer require a large home or for a young couple with one or two children. This economy design, which has a full basement with the stairway down from the rear hall, can be built without the garage or porch if so desired.

The cozy living room, with its brick-faced colonial-style fireplace, combines with the dining room to form a sizable area for day-to-day family living as well as congenial entertaining.

Note the conveniently located kitchen in the rear of the house. It has space for a dinette set for breakfast and informal family dining. Connecting the kitchen with the garage is a pleasant porch or breezeway, inviting you to sit down, relax and enjoy the evening breeze.

If you need a den or family room, the problem is easily solved by enclosing the porch to make a convenient and attractive second living room, TV room or playroom for the youngsters. Being near the kitchen, it is ideal for serving refreshments or quick snacks.

The rectangular design of this house holds down structural costs. So does the plumbing arrangement, with all fixtures located at the rear. The garage, with its "down-east" salbox roof topped by a cupola and weather vane, contains a bonus in the form of a large alcove in which the mowers, bikes, etc., that often clutter a garage can be stored.

Architect Chirigotis has made maximum use of every inch of room, with all rooms having adequate wall space and with cross ventilation in all first- and second-floor bedrooms.

An extra advantage of a house of this type is that it will not go out of style. Also, it has good resale value, since its potential purchasers will include both large and small families. But perhaps mention of resale isn't too appropriate with a home whose flexibility makes it likely to remain in possession of one family for a long time.

Design Z-26 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, bath and porch on the first floor, with a habitable area of 870 square feet. The plans call for two bedrooms and a bath on the second floor, to be finished when the house is built or at a later date, adding 473 square feet for a total of 1,343. Over-all dimensions, including a one-car garage, are 60 feet by 24 feet, 10 inches. If the porch and garage are not required, the dimensions are only 35 feet by 24 feet, 10 inches.

Question: We have a hot water problem. When we turn on a faucet, the water runs cold for quite a few minutes before it begins to get warm and then gets hot. But that's not the worst of it. After the hot water runs for a while — it turns cold. If you shut off the faucet for three or four minutes and then turn it on, it's hot again. It's driving us crazy, especially when taking a bath or a shower. It also affects our dishwashing machine, as we never can get enough hot water to get the dishes clean. Can you tell us what is causing this problem, which we never had in our other house?

Answer: The two difficulties — the delay in getting hot water and the insufficiency of hot water — may be unrelated. When it is necessary to run a lot of cold water before getting the hot, it usually means that there is a long run of uncovered pipe which should be insulated to keep the water in the pipe from getting cold. You can buy insulation for the purpose and put it on the hot water pipe yourself or you can have it done. There is another more complicated, more expensive and more certain method involving the installation of a two-pipe system, but this must be done by a plumber. As for the lack of hot water, there are several causes. The most usual is a hot water heater too small for the demands of the family or a coil system that is inadequate. Here again you can do nothing about it except to have a plumber inspect the present installation and recommend the necessary changes. One word of advice; when selecting a hot water heater, don't skimp on the size.

Most persons make the mistake of getting a heater too small because it's cheaper. It's poor economy if it doesn't fill the bill.

(You can get Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Make Simple Plumbing Repairs," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

By ANDY LANG

Lucky indeed is the home owner who decides to paint one of the rooms in his house and does not have to do any plaster patching ahead of time.

Of course, he can skip the patching if he wishes. But, if there are any cracks, holes or openings of any kind in the plaster, neglecting them before painting will only result in an amateurish effect when the job is completed. Better to spend a little extra time in closing the gaps in the wall and be certain, at the very least, of winning the approbation of the lady of the house — or the man of the house, since women do so much interior painting these days.

Plaster patching material usually comes in the form of a powder which requires mixing with water before using. When mixed to the consistency of dough, it is applied with a putty knife or similar tool. However, in the case of hairline cracks, the mixture should be a little more watery so that it can be pressed into the tiny openings.

While patching plaster dries fairly quickly, it does not dry as rapidly as plaster of paris, which also comes in powdery form. Some persons make a 50-50 mixture of the two and find it very effective. Nothing or nobody can tell you as much about the proper drying time as the instructions on the container of whatever product you purchase.

Possibly the most important thing about patching is the necessity of wetting down the area to be repaired. Wet the opening thoroughly, then apply the plaster. After the patch has set, wet it down again. The patch must be covered with a sealer or primer before repainting the entire wall or trying to match the patch with the result of the surface. (You can get Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Paint Your House Inside and Out," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

When the opening in the plaster is anything more than a hairline crack, it must be undercut to prevent the patch from falling out when it has dried. Undercutting involves making the edges of the plaster slant inward, so that the opening is wider at the bottom than at the top. Be sure all loose bits of plaster are removed, then soak the opening with clean water and go ahead with the patching.

Local realtor points out both ends of market growing

When you reach age 65, you move in with your children and just sit around. Right? Wrong, according to C. A. Majer, president of the Pocono Mountains Board of Realtors, who pointed to the growing tendency of older people to maintain their own abode.

"One of the phenomena of the current real estate market is the growth of the under 30 and over-60 age groups, the National Association of Real Estate Boards advises us," The Pocono Mountain Board of Realtors is affiliated with NAREB.

Majer explained that there are changes in the role older people will play in future real estate markets. Many will be able to buy a vacation home, and some will combine apartment rental with resort area ownership.

As a result, he said, potential demand for apartments, for condominiums, for retirement homes for families or individuals over 60 should be listed high among the selling and lending plans of Realtors.

Those in the over-60 group, although they represent a smaller share of all households than those in the younger bracket, are families with maximum average assets.
